Payoff Frees Kidnaped Boy

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., (AP)—A Beverly Hills financier described today how his 11-year-old son was kidnaped without a hitch, then returned unharmed after a large ransom was paid.

Herbert J. Young, 35, president of Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association, said $250,000 ransom was asked for his son Kenneth, but he did not disclose the amount paid.

Kenneth was bound and blindfolded early today in a car parked in an apartment house garage in nearby Santa Monica. After obeying instructions to wait for a half-hour, he worked loose and ran to the nearest apartment to call his parents. He had been missing since early Monday.

The FBI said the kidnapers picked up the ransom Wednesday in Westwood a few miles from Beverly Hills and were at

Water Supply Gets Praise

The operations of the public water supply serving Sikeston were complimented today by A. R. Baron, Poplar Bluff, district sanitary engineer of the division of health of Missouri, Dick Inman, manager of the Board of Public Works, reported.

Baron stated in letter to the board that officials and personnel concerned with the operation are to be congratulated on their interest in the utility.

The letter followed an investigation of the water plant facilities and conditions made by a representative of the Missouri division of health March 29. No unsatisfactory features were found, Baron said.

Baron suggested that the city send a water plant employe to a one - week course to be trained and licensed as an operator at the Water and Sewage Technical School in Neosho.

Inman said the city expects to send Glenn R. Jones, an experienced operator to the school.

School Census Will Be Taken

The school enumeration for the public school district will be taken by freshmen during April.

This census, required by state law, must be taken every five years. On the basis of the enumeration the state provides financial aid to the schools.

Every residence will be canvassed. All persons under 20, married or single, in service, in college, or working in another town, who calls a house his home, must be enumerated. They do not have to be in school.

Social studies classes will conduct the count.

The district has been divided into 24 sections. Students will be responsible for taking the census in areas in which they live. Parent supervisors will assist the students.

Parents can help the census taker by having available the names, birthdates, ages and relationship of all persons living in their home under 20.

Parents who have questions or if the census takers fail to reach them, may contact Ernest Elledge, junior high school principal, telephone GR-1-5150, or Tony Statler, administrative assistant, telephone GR 1-4454, who will be in charge of the census.

Dexter to Vote On Bond Issue

DEXTER -- The city council set May 18 as the date for an $80,000 general obligation bond issue for an extension of the city water line.

The water line would be extended from the New International Hat Co. plant to the new Dexter Memorial hospital.

In other business Harry Jennings of the public housing authority requested the council to pass a resolution to extend the city water and sewer lines to the proposed public housing site in the Rainey Cabin area on highway 114 west.

The water line is now 200 feet from the site, and the sewer line is 415 feet away. The council passed the resolution.

At a previous meeting C. R. Trotter and Associates, consultants, suggested that the city apply for federal funds for public works planning. City attorney Paul McGee, this week, presented the council a copy of the application and explained it. The council took no action but is expected to approve the application later.

James Hubbard, civil defense director, reported that he is trying to obtain matching funds through the office of civil defense for purchasing two sets of two - way radios. Cost of the radios is about $1,400.

Hubbard requested that the city pay $25 toward expenses to a civil defense meeting at Jefferson City Sunday. The council granted the request. The council also approved his re-

Mayor Sikes Re-elected

Kendall Sikes was re-elected to a third term as mayor and Taylor Noyles re-elected vice mayor in a council meeting Wednesday night by unanimous vote.

The vote was taken in a session following a meeting to canvass the votes in Tuesday's election and to fill the expired council post.

Fourteen absentee ballots were counted. Thirteen of the votes went for Arthur Ziegenhorn who was re-elected for a three-year council post. His challenger Hugh T. McCollum received the other vote.

Ziegenhorn was sworn in for his second term during the first meeting Wednesday by City Clerk John W. Vaughn.

Final totals were Ziegenhorn, 748, McCollum, 389. Three absentee ballots were cast on the straw ballot to measure interest in paid community antenna television. The three votes were against the measure, bringing the final tabulation to: 443 for, and 632 against.

Morehouse Awarded U.S. Grant

MOREHOUSE -- The Federal Water Pollution Control administration has approved a $31,620 grant to the city for the new sewerage treatment system.

On Nov. 1, 1966, voters approved by a 6-1 margin a $160,000 revenue bond issue and a $180,000 general obligation bond issue for a sewer system and improvements to the water system.

The federal grant will be used for three lift stations, force main and waste stabilization lagoon west of the city.

Williams and Associates of St. Louis, consulting engineers, are in Morehouse this week making a final survey for the sewer system, City Clerk Manuel Taylor said today. They have already surveyed for the lagoon.

After the engineers' plan has been approved by the state health department, the city can advertise for bids, Taylor said.

Hearnes Sees Bright Future In Lead Belt

IRONTON AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today the mining area of southeastern Missouri has a future of unlimited opportunities.

"You are fortunate," he said, "fortunate because you can look forward to economic improvement and at the same time live in an environment few other Missourians are privileged to enjoy.

"Your iron supply has been estimated to last at least 100 years and the lead potential is estimated in millions of tons. Add the other resources of the area and you have a future offering unlimited opportunities."

The governor made his comments in a speech prepared for a meeting at Arcadia Valley High School in Ironton after an aerial tour of the mining areas of Iron and Reynolds counties and a stop to look at the Pilot Knob pellet plant.

Housewife Winner in Grocery War

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Remember the housewives' rebellion against supermarkets last fall? Well, one chain took the ladies at their word and now the grocery stores in southern Florida are at war with each other. The housewife is coming out a winner.

Eighty-eight stores in the Winn-Dixie chain today rounded out a week in a no-stamps, no-games, no-gimmicks marketing experiment featuring only lower prices. The boss said it is a success.

"There's not a chance in the world we will return to stamps," said O. W. Waldorf, chief of the Vero Beach-to-Miami division.

Other chains have struck back with advertising campaigns, insisting they will have lower prices and stamps.

"Rest assured," said a one-page ad showing a pretty, smiling housewife resting her cheek on a stampbook, "We won't take away your stamps." Another ad proclaims that stamps are "an American tradition."

But Waldorf said he isn't worried. "We have been surprised at the very few complaints we have received from giving up stamps."

Shoppers interviewed in the stores, most of which carry the name "Kwik-Chek," are also happy.

"I'll take money anytime," said Linda Thomas. Another housewife, carrying a pocket-size adding device, said she had saved almost a dollar on a $9 order.

Waldorf won't claim that kind of savings for every shopper. But he promises that the lower prices on all 7,000 items will be the same every day, not just on weekends.

For example, T-bone steaks came down 31 cents, a pound of bacon 11 cents, a can of applesauce 4 cents. Even prepackaged food with the price marked by the processor, such as potato chips or cookies, have been cut a penny or two. The old prices marked out.

Waldorf, 48, said he started thinking about the multimillion-dollar experiment when the housewives boycotted last fall to protest high prices. He set up a single store without stamps and watched the reaction.

"We decided that the people in our area were ready for lower prices and less frills," said the veteran of 30 years in retail food sales.

He closed his stores for two

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We believe that the citizens of Sikeston should have an opportunity to vote for an industrial levy for Sikeston.

Because we believe an industrial levy will provide the funds -

To offer prospective industries a desirable industrial site with utilities, etc., in Sikeston.

To help develop more jobs for our people and better payrolls for all.

Our new vocational training classes will train our young people in skills but it is an industrial levy that will keep them here in our community as wage earners.

So we can compete with many other cities who can offer aid to new industries.

Her dad, Allen, will see that she becomes an excellent fisher, hunter and skier.

Grandmother Heckert and your kind and loving spirit will see that she becomes the great lady.

HOPE IN A HUNGRY WORLD

Public opinion polls generally place such things as the Viet Nam war, the cost of living and racial strife at the head of the list of great issues that concern people the most. But one growing problem over-riding all others is that of world-wide population growth. Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, speaking on this problem, called it, "the most challenging crisis for the rest of this century," and he speaks with good reason. World population in the year 1887 was 1.3 billion persons. By 1957, just 70 years later, it doubled to 2.6 billion. By the year 2000, careful projections indicate a world population of 6 billion people must be provided with a minimum diet in order to exist.

In the matter of food production, the United States has become the shining hope of the world for the simple reason that it has demonstrated what modern technology can do to increase the productivity of the land. Free enterprise agriculture, coupled with revolutionary advances in the development and use of machinery, chemical fertilizers and pesticides, has produced dramatic results. Take but a few typical crops. Corn production in the 1925-29 period approximated 26 bushels per acre. In 1965, it was estimated at 72 bushels. Wheat yield per acre went from about 14 bushels to 27. Cotton production has trebled in the last 30 years. Milk production per cow nearly doubled in the same period. In the forefront of the list of tools upon which we must increasingly depend to augment agricultural production are pesticide chemicals - the wide variety of insecticides, fungicides, weed killers, rodent destroyers, and plant growth regulators available for safe use in food production, processing and marketing.

The United States, among the developed countries, faces the challenge of playing a decisive leadership in helping teach two thirds of the world's people how to produce enough food to feed themselves. Advanced agricultural techniques cannot be applied overnight in countries with vastly differing eating habits, crop requirements and political systems. U.S. agricultural progress itself depends upon public understanding of our economic system of free markets and private enterprise. This system provides the incentives to create and apply the constant flow of technological developments on which we and the rest of the world's people depend for survival.

Fathers and mothers of teenagers will no doubt be interested in the following statistics pertaining to telephone calls in the nation's homes, and some may argue the accuracy of the figures:

Nothing was said about the other 3 per cent so we would presume that figure covers the wrong numbers.

UPLAND BROOKS

There is music in the air as April works along. Robins and bluebirds welcome the dawn from the orchard behind the barn; cock pheasants challenge from the woodland's edge and flickers shout from the fields. Wood pewees' plaintive arias drift from the woodland and a partridge's drum call reverberates from the sugar lot.

It is good to go forth on a pleasant day, climb the upland pasture and listen to the music of the brook. It sings down the rocky slope, clear water in a gravelly bed, and swirls against the grassy banks.

The pulsing urgency of spring is in the fast-flowing water. It leaps over little ledges and seethes in bubbling foam in small pools. Drops are flung into the air and the sun reflects glints of color in the air-borne spray.

Down the brown-grass slope it rushes, hurrying to join the large brook in the lowland which in turn flows into a river on its way to a distant sea.

Listen to the music. In it one can hear part of earth's everlasting symphony. There are deep, haunting alto tones, lighter strains from the flutes and violins, and occasionally near a little waterfall one can hear the deep, resonant tones of the bass fiddles.

From 10 times 10,000 hills, small brooks are hurrying down the hillsides. In midsummer they may be small trickles, but now in spring they are running full and making music as they speed down from the heights.

Clear, cool water is one of nature's gifts, and the music of the upland brooks is part of the heartlift of spring.

NEW YORK (AP) —Remarks that a federal income tax collector gets tired of hearing at this time of the year:

"Well, you can't get blood out of a turnip."

"What do you guys do with all the money you collect—pour it down ratholes?"

"Not that I mind supporting my own government, but why do I have to help support every government in the whole world?"

"You say I owe you $417. I say you owe me a $312 refund. Okay, why don't we just toss a coin and settle it that way? What'll you call—heads or tails?"

"Why don't you put a tax on salt, like they did in the olden times? Go ahead, you won't worry me. I'm on a salt-free diet."

"I brought my little daughter Elsa along. Elsa, say hello to the nice gover'ment fella. Show him the patches on your dress, the holes in your shoes, then ask him what he's trying to do to your poor papa."

"There's only one way to spell bureaucrat, and it always winds up with the same three letters."

"Why can't I meet you at that little bar down the street after you're through work for the day, and you and I can talk this whole thing over quietly, man to man, in a more congenial atmosphere? Naturally, I'm buying."

"Who drew up the government's tax forms this year—Phyllis Diller?"

"Well, here's my return. Tell me, where do they serve the best chow—in the Atlanta or the Leavenworth penitentiary?"

"Now that I've paid my tax, can you tell me where I go to sign up for the federal antipoverty program?"

DEBT INTEREST PAYMENTS EQUAL $219 PER HOUSEHOLD

One pressing question that will demand an answer as the 90th Congress begins, says Tax Foundation, Inc., is: how long can Uncle Sam's debt be kept beneath the "temporary" $330 billion ceiling fixed for it last May?

Debt (and the interest on it) bulks large in any Federal budget. Of the items in the original fiscal 1967, $112.8 billion budget, interest on debt was the second most costly.

Only the military functions of the Defense Department command bigger amounts. Payments for interest are now equivalent to $219 per U.S. household, as estimated by the Foundation.

The "permanent" debt ceiling is $285 billion. But it has long ceased to be much more than an outmoded benchmark. The "temporary" ceiling has grown from $324 billion to $330 billion within the past two years.

When a new "temporary" ceiling was proposed at $332 billion last Spring, Congress balked and set the $330 figure. The Treasury said it accepted the ceiling "reluctantly" and a spokesman then said there likely would be another boost asked before fiscal 1967 ended (next June 30).

It was pointed out that the ceiling figure requested involved $3 billion for a contingency reserve. With only $330 billion to work on, said the Treasury spokesman, this figure was deemed "too thin a margin for prudent operation."

Payments for interest have gone from $7.3 billion ten years ago to the current $12.9 billion.

Federal debt interest payments by selected fiscal years and on a per household basis are shown below as follows:

F.Y., Int. Payments (in mill.$) Per Household

"CONSENSUS COMPLEX"

The peoples' right to control forces which bring about dramatic economic and social changes in this country is being impaired by the "consensus complex" in Washington, D.C. phenomena is stifling constructive critical comment on government policies "to an extent that is dangerous to our national life."

"In the name of consensus," he declared, "we find Government telling labor and management what wages are acceptable, telling aluminum producers what prices are justified, telling banks what rates are permissible. In the name of consensus, we find press criticism of the Government frowned upon, and critical suggestions from the business community brushed aside."

The Administration's desire to limit its opposition by pressure for general "consensus" is contrary to the two-way exchange of viewpoints so characteristic and important to self-government. The strongest pillar of our political philosophy is the assurance that opposing views are not rejected for the sake of expediency. Everytime that philosophy is ignored, the right of citizens to determine their own destiny diminishes.

H. L. Hunt Says

REFORM THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Article II, Section I of the U. S. Constitution provides: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." Electors are directed by the Constitution to vote in their respective States, and Congress is authorized to count their votes.

To win, a presidential candidate must have a majority in the electoral college, but a President can be elected with less than a majority of the votes. In fact, this has happened 11 times in our history. This country has had nine minority Presidents, with two (Cleveland and Wilson) serving two terms as minority Presidents.

Before adoption of the Twelfth Amendment (1804) the House of Representatives, voting by States (with one vote for each State), chose the President from the five candidates having the largest number of electoral votes. After the choice of the President, the candidate having the greatest number of votes of electors became Vice-President. In event of a tie, the Senate would choose the Vice-President. The Twelfth Amendment provided that electors would henceforth vote for President and Vice-President separately.

Under the present system, every four years the American people run the risk of electing a minority President. The system is antiquated and discriminatory. For example, a candidate whose share of popular votes is only one more than that of his nearest rival in a State receives all that State's electoral votes.

The Legislatures of 12 States so far have passed resolutions calling for reform of the Electoral College. Twenty-six more States following their example could result in the correcting of this situation. Contacting your State Legislators can help preserve the tradition of a great Republic. HLH.

Washington Merry · Go · Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Things have not been going well for Adam Clayton Powell on the sun-kissed island of Bimini. His self-imposed exile in the paradise has begun to pall, and his words to newsmen, "Why go back to Washington when you can enjoy a place like this?" have developed a very hollow ring.

Things have become so difficult that Adam's closest advisers are working feverishly to get him back to New York before he displays in public what they have already seen in private - the signs of developing paranoia.

For a man who once flew all the way to the Bandung conference in Indonesia to defend the United States against the Chinese communists and who as chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee passed some of the most important education and labor laws in history, it's a pathetic picture.

"One minute he's pleasant and charming and the next minute he's cutting your guts out," confessed one supporter who had flown down to Bimini to help. "That's why they can't get anyone to go down there except the dissidents and the third-partyites. Adam thinks everyone down there is spying on him."

The End of the World Bar has also lost its appeal; and even Corinne Huff, first Negro girl to win the Miss Ohio Beauty Contest, who has been living with Adam in South Bimini, appears unhappy.

ADAM'S ISOLATION

Part of the trouble is the New York courts. Until it's certain that Adam won't be arrested when he returns, his supporters are trying to keep someone on the island to dispel his sense of isolation and abandonment.

To this end they are sending out calls - some almost threats of political retaliation - to prominent Negroes around the country to come to Bimini to stand up and be counted as friends of Adam. This, however, has not been easy. Powell has insulted too many of his friends. Even when Chuck Stone, former editor of the Afro-American and Adam's most faithful staff member, came to Bimini, he was kept waiting 24 hours before Powell would give him a private audience.

To bolster both Adam's public image and his self-reliance, negotiations are under way to get widely respected civil rights leaders, ranging from Philip Randolph of the sleeping car porters' union to Martin Luther King and Whitney Young of the urban league, to come to the island. In return Powell would keep his mouth shut - no more TV press conferences showing Adam apparently under the influence of too many scotches.

Some newspapers have reported that Adam is not concerned about the prospects of being arrested if he returns to New York. In Miami, however, when he flew there to have an election paper notarized, he appeared to be very much concerned. He remained at the airport only 20 munutes. If he is arrested, he wants to be tapped in Harlem amid his constituents.

There was a time when Adam didn't give a hoot about his public image. Thumbing his nose at white men made him a hero back in Harlem. But those days have changed.

After front-page newspaper stories featured him with a bosomy fire dancer in the End of the World Bar - pictures which also inspired the wrath of Corinne Huff - Adam was persuaded that he must improve his image.

END OF THE WORLD

This was what started his series of weekend outdoor sermons on the island. They were attended chiefly by curious American tourists. Few natives came to be converted. To them, Adam was old hat.

At a press conference on the Monday before Palm Sunday Powell distributed palms to a pack of Tallahassee boy scouts who had been corralled for the specific purpose of having their picture taken. The palms, according to Adam, had been gathered by island children for Palm Sunday services. Actually they had been cut only a few minutes before from a dead palm branch, not by children but by Powell's boat captain.

When the stage was set for the palm presentation, someone went to the End of the World Bar to tell Adam all was ready. He then came out to Brown's courtyard to announce that he would enter Harlem the following Sunday just as Jesus entered Jerusalem, triumphant on Palm Sunday - except Adam noted he would not be riding on the foal of an ass.

Shortly thereafter when he heard that the court contempt order would not be revoked, Adam revoked his own plans for returning triumphant to Harlem.

Actually Adam is not having the gay time many people think. Every morning he fishes alone except for the company of his captain. Every afternoon he drinks scotch while playing dominoes in the End of the World Bar. Corinne Huff's nerves appear frayed. She doesn't enjoy having tourists focus their cameras on her and either ducks down in the fishing boat or stays home alone.

Those responsible for clearing the legal road for Adams' return to New York have been warned by close friends that if he remains on the island in the sun too much longer, it may be for Adam truly the end of the world.

Such is the penalty not so much for using airplane credit cards, which other congressmen have done, but of ignoring your wife while at the same time cashing her salary checks. It was the testimony of Adam's rejected wife, Yvette, which hurt him most.

Spring Time Offensive
Govt. Probing 50,000 Unions On Handling of Negroes.

Washington, D.C.: -- Actually it isn't even spring but the government, on a signal from the White House, is moving along a massive front to head off the oft threatened long hot summer.

One agency is about to check 50,000 unions and 7,000 apprenticeship programs to learn how many keep Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Mexican - Americans, American Indians and Orientals from getting in and getting jobs.

FBI teams have been spot-checking huge construction sites and lush suburban communities in search of a "pattern of discrimination."

Union leaders and employers running joint training schools -- which feed young newly skilled workers into huge building projects worth scores of billions of dollars -- are quietly being told they'll suddenly be hacked off from federal money conduits and contracts if they don't train and hire Negroes.

Specific unions, such as the big plumbers and pipe fitters organization which has some 25,000 young men in the training mill, are being picked for open and scathing scorn by the wrathful Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

Union chiefs threatening to bolt the "Party" and declare political war if they are "prosecuted" are told quietly they must stop catering to the big rebellious locals which are politically powerful in the international union. If the national leaders persist in their threat to join the opposition, they are being told politely to do it by way of first jumping into the Potomac.

This massive movement -- unleashed by the Justice Dept., which plans to haul some of the local unions into court soon, and by the Labor Dept. and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission -- is in part an answer to the criticism by the Rev. Martin Luther King who has threatened to make the summer hotter.

And partly, the offensive is a response to the urgings of such organizations as the moderate Urban League and the N.A.A.C.P. whose Boston convention President Johnson may address in mid-July.

The federal campaign at this very minute also springs from the confidential reports of some frustrated national labor leaders who say privately that they simply can't control the defiant local baronies.

So after some two years of juggling with verbiage the government has prepared a questionnaire for dispatch to all unions in the land. There have been public hearings on the wording.

The document now is at the Bureau of the Budget which, for some mysterious ancestral reason, must approve all government forms. Then it will hit the mail -- certainly within the next month.

". . .The Commission has proceeded and will proceed with equal vigor with the unions as well as employers," said Stephen Shulman, E.E.O.C. chairman, "since both are covered by the statute.

"The new union reporting forms will be called EEO-2 and EEO-3.

"Our research indicates that form EEO-2 will bring responses from 7,000 joint labor-management apprentice programs registered with state or federal agencies plus an undetermined number from unregistered joint programs as well as from unilateral employer or union programs.

"Form EEO - 3 we estimate will bring responses from some 50,000 industrial and referral type unions."

That will set the record. The Commission has no enforcement powers. But its record will be explosive. The new questionnaire -- which will demand that labor report on operations during August, September and October -- asks some mighty pertinent questions:

It wants to know whether there are any clauses in the constitution or bylaws or in practice which keeps Negroes, Spanish-Americans, American Indians and Orientals out of any of the unions.

It wants to know if applicants for membership in the unions which control the labor force in the highest paying (and lowest, too) areas must have a sponsor. It wants to know how many applicants there have been, and how many of these have been Negroes, etc., and how many have been admitted and how many have been referred to jobs.

It's tough. But that's how the government means it to be. And to have an unpunishable record during the three-month late summer and early fall period, the unions will have to open their books and jobs in late spring and early summer. And the federals want to know where the unions are keeping the records upon which they base their replies.

Then will come the analysis -- and action -- probably by the Justice Dept.'s Civil Rights Division. It was to this office, for example, that the FBI dispatched the results of its search for a "pattern of discrimination" in union membership and hiring in a New York City suburb where a $25 million construction project is underway.

Obviously the government has decided to stop playing it cool so it can head off the threatened hot weather rioting.

Vicky Sue Seabaugh Weds Harold William McDowell

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Tall baskets of gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums and twin spiral candelabra holding lighted tapers graced the altar of Maple Avenue Methodist church March 18 for the wedding of Miss Vicky Sue Seabaugh and Harold William McDowell. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seabaugh, 816 North Fountain, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. McDowell of Jackson.

The pastor, the Rev. Theodore Probst, officiating in the rites for which James Rhodes, organist, played and Allen Rowland of Jackson sang.

Escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace with high-rise waistline, deep Renaissance neckline and pencil-slim skirt. Accents of French cording and a rich sprinkling of sequins accented the bodice and hemline of the skirt with its soft inverted pleats at back. Her court train, sweeping from the shoulders, was edged in scallops of lace, and her elbow length, bouffant veil of silk illusion drifted from a cluster of organza rosebuds and satin leaves. She wore an heirloom lavaliere which had been her great-grandmother's. Her bouquet of white glamelias was arranged in gladioli and roses.

Her aunt, Mrs. Harold Curnell of Illmo, matron of honor, Miss Elizabeth Ridings, maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Ritter, bridesmaid, wore pink chiffon gowns with draped empire waistlines and ruffled sleeves and carried cascade bouquets of pink pompon chrysanthemums.

Attendants to the bridegroom were his brother, Jerry McDowell of Sikeston, best man, and James K. Sander and Ray Schwain, both of Jackson. Eugene Meyer of St. Louis and John Wessell of Gordonville were ushers.

Afterward, a reception of wedding guests was held in the church dining room with the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Harold Gremore of Sikeston and Mrs. Ray Davault, presiding in serving with the aunts of the bride, Mrs. Curtis Quade of Potosi and Mrs. Leroy Abernathy of Jackson.

After their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the couple is at home at 1923 North Sprigg. She is employed by the Cape Girardeau Surgical Group, and he by W. T. Grant Co.

Miss June Wertz Marries Robert Gist March 18

MARION, Ind. -- In a double ring ceremony, Miss June Wertz and Robert L. Gist were married March 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the altar of the First Evangelistic United Brethern church. Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. L. G. D. Wertz and Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Gist of Portageville, Mo.

The vows were said before the bride's father, the Rev. Mr. Wertz who also gave his daughter in marriage. He was assisted by Darrell L. Cook, brother-in-law of the bride, ministerial student at Evangelical Seminary, Naperville, Ill.

White carnations were in the vases on the communion table. Bakets of white snapdragons and white and apricot carnations were at the ends of the altar. The pews were marked with white and apricot bows.

Mrs. James D. Carter, of Muncie, was the organist and Mrs. Ronald Green, of Indianapolis, was the soloist; she sang "Walk Hand In Hand With Me" and "If God Left Only You."

The bride wore a floor-length white satin A-line gown with empire waistline, with a lower-round boat shaped neckline. An embroidered imported lace covered the bodice. The same lace bordered the hemline of the gown. A satin train flowed gracefully down the back and tapered outward from the shoulder seams. The long set-in sleeves ended in bridal points over the hand. Her mantilla veil was of matching lace flowing down the back to wrist length from a white satin bow. She carried a white lace-covered Bible topped with her bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Richard DeHoff of Indianapolis was matron of honor and Mrs. Darrell Cook of Naperville, Illinois was bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride. They wore pale apricot floor length gowns of a brocade peau-de-soie.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wertz chose a princess style dress. Her accessories were of mint green.

Mrs. Gist, mother of the groom wore a three-piece mint green suit with beige accessories.

A dinner was held in the church fellowship hall for the wedding party and invited guests.

A three-tiered wedding cake, accented in apricot, and topped with a white wedding bell ornament, was cut by the bride and groom. The cake and apricot-colored fruit punch were served by Mrs. Harold Pittsford of Anderson, Ind., and Mrs. Ray Gallapoo of Elwood, Ind., both aunts of the bride. The table was covered with a white linen cloth topped with white net and accented on the edges with white miniature wedding bells.

For going away the bride chose a pastel pink and white tailored tweed suit with stand-up collar and straight skirt. The blouse was of pink silk shantung. She wore pink accessories. Her corsage was from the heart of the bridal bouquet. Her white-gold bracelet was the gift of the groom.

The bride is beginning her senior year at Ball State University, in Muncie, Ind., where she is a member of the concert choir and Sigma Alpha Iota music honorary professional fraternity. Gist was in the United States Marine corps for four years, serving in the Presidential Helicopter Unit. He is presently employed with the Chrysler Corporation in Kokomo, Ind.

The couple is now living in Kokomo.

Food Prices Lowest in 15 Months

NEW YORK (AP) - Food prices dived again this week.

Farmers have been sending more livestock to market, and Southern crops have been better than they were a year ago, when they were curtailed by freezes.

As a result, wholesale prices this week dipped 6.3 per cent lower than a year ago, and are now the lowest in 15 months.

Shipments of strawberries cauliflower and asparagus from California, and sweet corn, tomatoes, potatoes, peppers and citrus from Texas and grapefruit from Florida are increasing, leading to lower prices.

Egg prices, which have been tumbling since Easter, fell again this week. Prices now are about 25 cents a dozen lower than they were in November.

Shoppers also may find lower prices on frozen cocktail, pears, zucchini, lima beans, crinkle cut beets, diced carrots, pineapple, salmon and tunafish - special brand promotions this month.

The California tuna market has been glutted, and some vessels have been diverted to Puerto Rico. Tuna production in Hawaii and American Samoa in February was up 60 per cent from 1966.

Limbaugh Pounds Two Homers As Sikeston Beats Jackson

Indians Suffer 16-4 Setback

As Dogs Win Third in Row

By Staff Writer

JACKSON - Home runs continue to lift the Sikeston Bulldogs baseball squad over its opponents as Sikeston took a 16-4 victory over the Jackson Indians yesterday afternoon.

This was the Dogs' third straight victory. It was Jackson's third consecutive loss.

Batting, fielding and pitching the Bulldogs to victory was senior Wayne Limbaugh, who cracked two homers, one a grand slam and the other a three-run blast, played short stop four innings and pitched three innings, in which he struck out five.

Limbaugh's first homer came in the fourth inning off loser Monroe. The other came in the seventh.

ZOILO VERSALLES, Minnesota Twins shortstop, grimaces as the ball takes a bad bounce over his head during infield practice at Orlando, Fla.

Manley was relieved in the fifth inning, holding an 8-2 lead and Limbaugh kept up the Dogs' defensive work by holding the Indians to two unearned runs. Manley struck out seven batters in five innings.

In the Dogs two previous victories, those over Oran and Chaffee, Manley and Mike Garner connected for four baggers.

Sikeston, now 3-0 will play host to the Illmo-Scott City Rams at the V. F. W. field Friday afternoon.

Manley and Limbaugh combined to pitch the Dogs to a three-hit victory.

Sikeston coach, Hal Lane, used his reserves late in the game and when the dust had settled his Sikeston squad had pounded out 14 hits, and scored 16 runs.

Both clubs went hitless in the opening inning. All six men went down in order. But the Dogs got things rolling in the first half of the second inning, scoring three runs on one hit, three walks, an error and a fielders' choice.

Jackson put its first score on the board in the bottom half of the second, scoring one run on two hits.

Sikeston flourished again in the fourth frame as it collected five hits and four runs on Limbaugh's grand slam homer.

Jackson moved their other three runs across in the fourth and fifth innings. Sikeston added one in the fifth, one in the sixth and seven in the final

Baltimore, Detroit and Minnesota 1-2-3 Pick In American League Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore has too many Robinsons for the rest of the American League and should win a second straight pennant. In this book, the only teams with solid chances to upend the favorites are the Detroit Tigers and the Minnesota Twins.

Despite the sore arms on Hank Bauer's pitching staff, the Orioles combine booming power, a tight defense and a strong bullpen. Bauer got only 23 complete games out of his staff last year but won easily by nine games and then swept the World Series in four straight.

It is tough to pick against a combination like that although the writer toyed with the idea of selecting Detroit. It is the feeling here that the Tigers could win it all but they have too many ifs in their pitching staff and could be ruined by an injury to a front liner.

With the addition of Dean Chance, the Twins do have formidable pitching but too much depends on a comeback by Bob Allison and development in center field. The latent power is present for another year like 1965.

Chicago's pitching should keep them in the race and Cleveland and California probably will fight it out for the other first-division berth.

The New York Yankees figure to escape the cellar but it will be an upset if they crack the top five. Kansas City has good young pitching which could be enough to put them ahead of Boston and Washington.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Baltimore
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. California
7. New York
8. Kansas City
9. Boston
10. Washington

If Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Steve Barber are not entirely sound when the seasons gets started, the Orioles may have to deal off a surplus outfielder to bolster the staff. Tom Phoebus, the young man who pitched two shutouts in his first two starts last fall but was not eligible for the Series, joins the starting rotation.

Frank Robinson, recovering from off-season knee surgery, and Brooks Robinson form a devastating punch. Toss in Boog Powell and Curt Blefary and add a few homers from Andy Etchebarren and the Orioles look real tough. Stu Miller, Eddie Fisher and Moe Drabowsky are expert firemen.

Mayo Smith appears to have the Tigers pulling together and hustling and Johnny Sain, his pitching coach, is doing a job with Joe Sparma. If Sain can provide enough strong arms to back up Denny McLain, Earl Wilson and Mickey Lolich, the Tigers really could be tough.

Dick McAuliffe has made the switch from short to second and Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup form a strong outfield.

SHS Golf

By Arnie

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Sikeston Bulldog golfers won their first match of the season yesterday by defeating the Caruthersville Tigers by nine strokes, 167-176.

The wind - swept course brought scores up somewhat, but the Dogs came through in flying colors. Ned Matthews and Charles Atchsion, both seniors, captured medalist honors for the Bulldogs. Both boys shot a nine-hole score of 41.

Next in line came Chuck Meyer, a red hot two-year boy, who was one shot off the pace with a 42. Three seniors rounded out the Sikeston scoring, Charles Stamp 43, Barry Greer 44, and David Whiteaker 46.

Caruthersville's low man was Ricky Davis. He shot a seven over par 43. Other Tiger scorers included Gary Lucy and Bobby Holland, 44, Van McClendon and Kenny Wimberly, 45, and Pat Slentz had a 55.

Coach Gene Dawson of Sikeston said he thought his boys played considerably better than they did last week against Poplar Bluff. Coach Dawson commented:

"We had some respectable scores considering the playing conditions."

Caruthersville Coach Parkinson stated that his boys didn't play as good as usual. He was quite impressed with the Sikeston squad. Caruthersville will journey to Dexter tomorrow to compete in a dual meet with the Bearcats.

The Dogs will be back on the trail again Friday when they travel to Kennett. The golfers lost this match last year by one stroke and will be out for revenge tomorrow at the Kennett Country club.

The line-up for the Bulldogs will probably be about the same as it has been in the first two meets with the exception of King Sidwell who will be out of action for a while due to an injury to his left hand.

The dual meet will begin at 1 p.m.

Bloomfield Names New Coaches

BLOOMFIELD -- The Bloomfield R-14 board of education has employed Frank Sifford of Broseley to coach and teach physical education for the 1967-68 school year.

Charles Mofitt has been employed by the board to teach social studies and coach the seventh and eight grades.

Mofitt is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. He is coach and physical education instructor at Ellisnore high school.

Sifford and Mofitt will replace Tom Hewgley and Charles Spoonhour, who have resigned.

Hewgley will work on his masters degree while Spoonhour has accepted head coaching duties at Salem high school for the 1967-68 school year.

Netmen Fall At C'ville

CARUTHERSVILLE - The Sikeston netmen dropped their first match of the season to the Caruthersville Tigers yesterday afternoon. The squad made an impressive showing and was coming on strong but the match was cut short due to darkness. The final score was Caruthersville 4, Sikeston 3.

Scores in the singles division:

Kenny Bruce, Caruthersville, defeated Wythe Miller, Sikeston, (4-6)-(1-6).

Jim Hendricks, Caruthersville, was defeated by Bob McCord, (8-6)-(6-4).

Jim TeRoy, Caruthersville, defeated Hank Lippert, Sikeston, (6-3)-6-2).

Mac Ownby, Caruthersville, defeated Brad Crumpecker, Sikeston, (7-5)-(10-8).

Bill Dickerson, Sikeston, defeated Jim Norman, Caruthersville, (7-5)-(6-2).

Ron Hill, Sikeston, defeated Terry Thomas, Caruthersville, (6-1)-(6-1).

Brad Crumpecker lost his match by a narrow margin. This match was the closest of the afternoon as both boys put on a good show.

Only one doubles match was held because of the darkness. In this match, Caruthersville came out on top. Bruce and Hendricks defeated Miller and McCord, (6-2) and (6-4).

Sikeston Coach Richmond said that he thought that his boys did well. Richmond stated that the Bulldogs should be victorious on their home courts when the Tigers journey to Sikeston April 20.

The Sikeston team will travel to Kennett Friday to take on the Indians in its second match of the campaign.

COACHING SCHOOL

COACH RAY GRAVES of Florida, who developed Steve Spurrier - the 1966 Heisman award winner - will plot his highly-effective passing attack on the black-board at the MSHSAA's Coaching School Program, Thursday through Saturday at Columbia.

Graves' Gators have made four bowl appearances in his seven seasons, winning all but one - that a 20-18 Sugar Bowl triumph by Missouri in 1966 when a Spurrier-led fourth-quarter rally fell short.

The "Florida Pass Offense" lecture will be first on Thursday morning's agenda. On Friday, Graves will switch from his aerial theme to "Defense and Concealed Yardage."

The annual coaches' meeting, conducted in cooperation with the M.U. athletic department, also will feature Tiger grid boss Dan Devine and four of his assistants. On Saturday, the program will move to Memorial Stadium for a Mizzou spring practice scrimmage game.

Along with assistants Al Onofrio and Clay Cooper, Devine will present "Defensing the I-Formation," and with assistants John Kadlec and Hank Kuhlmann, he will discuss the Missouri offense.

Bob Roark, veteran football coach, whose Columbia Hickman team ended Jefferson City high's 71-game winning streak last year, and Gary Wieneke, outstanding cross country and track coach at Guilford high in Rockford, Ill., also on the clinic staff.

Morehouse high school officials are in the process of purchasing land for the building of a baseball park adjacent to the high school.

The Tigers are playing their baseball games on the town's little league park and hope to have a field of its own by next spring.

SHS Sports Report

By Dan Spears

The high school track team will travel to Kennett tomorrow, to participate in the annual Kennett invitational track meet. This is one of the largest meets held in the area. Practically every team around sends a man. Some of the leading teams to be in the meet are Charleston, Poplar Bluff, Jackson, Dexter, Hayti, Malden, Blytheville, Ark., Memphis Catholic, and Sikeston.

The preliminaries are scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Semi-finals will follow and the final will begin at 7 p.m. An additional attraction, the Freshman Relays, will be run between the semi-finals and finals.

There are expected to be a few, if not many, records broken providing the weather is good. This year's track teams are better than they have been in the past.

Coach Norman Lambert, said that his squad is coming through in fine form and doing well to be so young. He thinks the boys will do better through the season. Sikeston placed second in the Charleston invitational Tuesday.

Missouri Tangles With Oklahoma State At Stillwater Tomorrow And Saturday

COLUMBIA - They brought up the rear in basketball, but Missouri and Oklahoma State will be flexing their baseball biceps in an early-season series at Stillwater tomorrow and Saturday.

Both schools have had strong diamond entries in conference warfare. The cowpokes (1-4) open defense of their Big Eight title against Mizzou, a team that hauled away four straight pennants from 1962-65. Last year, though, Coach Chet Bryan's Cowboys won the race on the final day - and then swept to the finals of the College World Series before bowing to Ohio State.

Curiously, Mizzou swept three games from O.S.U. a year ago - but slid to a fourth-place finish in the standings on a 9-8 record.

Both clubs made unproductive Southern forays last week, Mizzou was 3-5-1 following a swing through Texas and Louisiana. Oklahoma State won just once in four outings.

The trip also cost Missouri the services of a promising sophomore catcher, Bill Krawczyk, who fractured his jaw in a home-plate collision against a Tulane base-runner Saturday. He might be ready for the last two weeks of the season.

Coach John (Hi) Simmons named Jerry Hurt (2-0) and Bob Carpenter (0-1) as the probable pitchers against O. S. U. on Friday - and sophomore Dan Sharp (0-1) the likely hurler on Saturday.

"Hurt gave us the best performance on the trip," Simmons noted, "pitching ten scoreless innings. I figure our pitchers will come around with more work, but am concerned about our defensive shortcomings in the outfield."

Except for Ray Thorpe in left, Simmons indicated, he would still continue experimenting at the other two positions.

Thorpe, smallish, bespectacled football halfback, is leading the Bengals at the plate with a .324 mark on 11 hits in 34 trips. It was his 49-yard scamper with a Gary Kimbrink lateral that beat Oklahoma State, 7-0, in a tight, defensive duel here last fall.

Behind Thorpe, another recruit from football ranks, third baseman Jim Juras, is hitting .310. Sophomore Del Blunk is third at .290.

Probable Tiger batting order against the Pokes; Ray Thorpe, lf (.324); Gene Stephenson, lb (.241); Jim Juras, 3b (.310) Del Blunk, cf (.290); Jim Loving, rf (.167); Rudy Stroupe, ss (.138); Kurt Boenker.

THANK YOU!

I want to take this opportunity to thank all the people in Sikeston, who supported me in the election April 4th.

I shall do my best to fullfill the confidence shown in me, by your vote.

Sincerely,
Arthur Ziegenhorn

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The testing program which we use to measure pupil achievement in the elementary schools is being given at this time and will continue throughout the month. The fourth and fifth grades are being tested this week and the tests will continue for the first, second and third grades. The series, which we use to measure individual and school progress, was developed by the Science Research Associates, likely the largest research and testing service of its kind in the nation.

The purpose of the tests is, as stated previously, to give us a measure of individual pupil progress and of school progress and to allow us to compare our results with other schools, national averages, etc.; and for our use in grouping children and in planning our program of instruction to meet their needs.

Generally on the basis of these standardized tests our average results are above those of the nation as a whole.

We feel that careful planning by the principal and supervisors and the effective work of our teachers are the major factors in our overall school progress, as certainly our per pupil expenditure, that is the amount of money spent on each child for the things that go into the educational program, is very considerably below the national average per pupil expenditure. In fact, our per pupil cost here is at least $150 below the national average expenditure. This is simply a fact of life, not our intent, and is because we receive much less from our sources than do most other schools. Our primary disadvantage is the small tax base or evaluation per school child enrolled. Consequently, our income is, obviously, not as much as it is in those schools where the tax base per child is larger. Nonetheless, it would seem that the school boards effective use of the tax dollar is getting good results, should be a source of community pride.

All parents of children whose sixth birthdays will be on or before September 15, 1967, are asked to pre - enroll these children, at the elementary school nearest their home, on Friday, May 12. As nearly as possible these first graders will be sent to the schools nearest their homes but it is also possible that those who do not pre - enroll may be assigned to a different school if room enrollments are already filled. Hence the importance of early enrollment which allows us to plan the first grade program for school opening, balance room and school enrollments, that is keep the teacher- pupil ratio as nearly equal as possible and to be prepared to give these youngsters the best possible start in the fall. Please fix this date in mind or put it on your calendar, May 12 for first grade enrollments.

It has been said that most if not all of the great ideas of man are found in the collection of books known as THE GREAT BOOKS or the SYNTOPICAN. This is a collection of important writings or expressions from those authors whose ideas have affected civilization or history.

Thousands of groups of people hold meetings to discuss these books, authors and ideas throughout the country. Men and women of all walks of life, differing social and economic strata and many varieties of intellectual interests take part. A recent development has been the organization of Junior Great Books discussion programs. In fact, we have such a program meeting regularly at Middle School. One of these enrolls 35 eight grade students and the other 30 seventh graders. These groups were organized by Mrs. David Croom and Mrs. Handy Moore.

They meet Tuesday and Thursday nights and discuss the books or assignments which they have previously read and which they usually re-read after the discussion. Thus they get their own concept of the author's ideas and through discussion, often spirited, the differing viewpoint of other members of the group or that of the discussion leaders.

The English department at Middle School also recognized or gives credit for this work in their assigned or outside reading programs.

We commend those in charge of this stimulating program and hope that it spreads to include more of our student body at all applicable levels.

Speaking of books as we did in the previous item, Fred Huff, Director of Library Services, and his associates in that department have organized a book fair or display to be held at the Senior High School library Monday, April 17 through Friday, April 21. It will be open daily from 7:30 to 4:30 and Tuesday evening from 7:00 to 9:00 and will close at noon on Friday. The book display, according to Mr. Huff, "will permit teachers, librarians, students and interested adults to review 450 of the best new library books at the seventh to twelfth grade level."

Sixty three publishers will be represented. The books are organized by grade level, such area and type (fiction and nonfixtion) making it easier to find the books of one's interest.

The firm that supplies the exhibits neither solicits or sends orders. The service which is entirely free, merely provides schools, teachers, students, parents, and all other interested individuals information to keep up with the important new books.

We pass along our librarian's invitation for your attendance.

The school census, required at least once each five year period, to count all children and youth under 20 years of age, married or single, here or in the service, in college, or working in some other town, who calls a house in this district his or her home, will begin April 10. Under the direction of Tony Statler of the school staff, it will be conducted by the Freshman class of Middle School. We solicit the cooperation of all people in helping us to get the correct count. It would be helpful if the householder, would have the full names, birth date, ages and relationship of all persons in the above category for the census taker. These individuals do not have to attend school in order to be counted.

The census is extremely important not only for an accurate count for planning purposes, but because it is the basis on which certain county and state school funds are distributed to the school. Thus the school loses if any youth or child is not counted.

We are now in the process of measuring or evaluating the remedial reading and after school tutoring program which we have conducted this year. While we strongly are of the opinion that these have been worthwhile, we will try to get more objective measures from certain tests which are being specifically given to those children who took part in these programs.

Both remedial reading and after school tutoring are financed by federal funds and, under our tight budget, could not otherwise have been accomplished.

The remedial reading program is set up to give special attention and instruction to those children who have reading difficulties or who are behind in this subject and the after school tutoring, available to all children who need it, is conducted at the schools either immediately after the regular school day or in the evening.

We will provide more information about these programs when the evaluation is completed.

ALFALFA WEEVIL, a relatively new crop pest in Missouri, has been found in 50 counties, shown on this map, according to entomologists at the University of Missouri extension division in Columbia.

Heavy Infestations Of Alfalfa Weevil in Area

COLUMBIA -- Heavy infestations of alfalfa weevil, an insect that can destroy an alfalfa crop, are being found in the Southeast Missouri counties, reports Gene Munson, survey entomologist for the University of Missouri Extension Division.

In some fields in Pemiscot county insect damage was found on 100 percent of the plants, Munson said. Spraying with insecticides is normally recommended when 50 percent of the plants show damage.

The weevils are about 10 days earlier than last year, the entomologist reported.

Spraying is being carried out in Pemiscot, New Madrid, and Scott Counties, Munson reported.

As the build-up of insect population works northward, spraying will likely be needed. Any counties south of a line between Ste. Genevieve and Douglas Counties could have a problem this year, according to George Thomas, MU extension entomologist.

Without insect control all of the first cutting of hay can be lost. Last year it was estimated that half of the first cutting of alfalfa and some of the second cutting was lost in the delta counties.

The damage is caused by a small light to dark green larvae, with a white stripe down the middle of the back. The larvae, which has a black head, is about 3/8 inch long when full grown.

The damage is caused by skeletonizing of the terminal and upper leaves of the alfalfa plant. Damaged fields appear greenish gray, then gray, and finally frosted as the damaged leaves dry.

Thomas reports that spraying is justified when 50 percent of the terminal buds show feeding damage and injury to the upper leaflets becomes apparent.

The alfalfa weevil was first discovered in the southeastern part of Missouri in the spring of 1964. Since then it has spread to 50 east central, central, and southwest counties.

At this rate of spread the insect will probably be found statewide in three or four years, Thomas said. Last year the weevil was found as far north as Pike County and as far west as Lawrence and Barry Counties.

Damage of economic importance can be expected two to three years after the first insect is found in a county, Thomas said.

Normally the first cutting is hardest hit by the weevil, as the insect -- unlike most pests -- goes dormant during the summer months.

"The alfalfa weevil overwinters in two forms -- adult weevils and eggs which are laid in the alfalfa stems in the fall and winter," Munson pointed out.

The larvae that are now causing problems are those that hatched from overwintering eggs. In the meantime, the adult weevils have been laying eggs in the new growth. As these eggs hatch, the weevil will be present throughout the spring.

"Farmers who are applying insect controls now, will undoubtedly have to spray a second time," Munson said. It is also sometimes necessary to spray the stubble after the first cutting of hay to prevent damage to the second cutting. In some cases early cutting of the alfalfa hay may eliminate the need for spraying if infestations aren't too heavy.

Information on recommended insecticides and application rates can be obtained at county extension centers.

PERVERSE PLAYMATES

A five - year -old boy had just been vaccinated and the nurse prepared a bandage to place over the spot on his arm.

"Nurse," said the youngster. "will you put it on my other arm, please?"

"But I must put it over the spot on your arm that is going to be sore," explained the nurse. "You see, I'm trying to protect it so your playmates won't hit it."

"That's why I want it on the other arm," declared the lad. "You don't know my playmates?"

Joplin College Plan Approved

JOPLIN AP -- Preliminary accreditation of Missouri Southern State College as a baccalaureate institution was announced Wednesday in Chicago by the North Central Association of College and Universities.

The action will allow the college to offer a third year level program beginning next fall and a senior program in the fall of 1968.

The college is now known as Missouri Southern College, but with the addition of the two years will be known as Missouri Southern State.

The Jasper County Junior College District will support the first two years of the college and the state will finance the last two years.

A new multimillion dollar campus for the college is nearing completion at the east edge of Joplin. Among the new building is Hearnes Hall, named in honor of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who supported legislation for the establishment of the college.

GOVERNORS FOR RIGHT TO WORK

John E. Davis, Governor of North Dakota 1957-1959, 1959-1961: "Our Right to Work law is guaranteeing the constitutional rights of all employees in North Dakota. This law does not prevent labor from organizing when they desire voluntarily to do so. It does prevent unions from forcing employees to join a union against their will. The state has developed industrially and expanded its job opportunities and wage rates since the Right to Work law has been in effect."

Private Enterprise And Public Responsibility In A Free Economy

By George Champion

In inviting me to participate in a program on the relationship of Business and Government, your Chairman Orville Beal probably figured that a banker could speak, if not from authority, at least from experience -- some of it quite painful.

The Federal Government's interest in banking is almost as old as our national history, and state regulatory commissions have kept a wary eye on the banks since 1838. That's sixteen years before the insurance business of our luncheon speaker, Gil Fitzhugh, and Orville Beal, fell under the states' regulatory gaze, and sixty-nine years before Don Cook's public utilities came under official surveillance. So you can see that the relationship between my particular business and government has been enduring, if not always enchanting.

It used to be fashionable to talk about the triad of banking, insurance and public utilities as "regulated industries," meaning industries requiring government permission before they could undertake certain activities. Today that term is redundant. If anyone can find such a thing now as an "unregulated industry," he can sell it at a profit to the Smithsonian!

The historic boundaries between public and private enterprise have become so blurred that it is often hard to tell whether we have a mixed economy or just a mixed-up one!

The Federal Government is the biggest spender, biggest lender, biggest borrower, and biggest customer in the Free World. It does everything from running sightseeing cars at T. V. A., to guaranteeing the financing for the Washington Senators' baseball stadium. If Jimmy Hoffa's drive to unionize the ball players succeeds, I wouldn't be surprised if the government ordered an 80-day "cooling off" period to get the teams through the World Series!

Now you may feel as I do that we would be better off under a system in which -- to borrow a British statesman's trenchant phrase -- "private enterprise will be enterprising (and) the government will govern." However, we in the twentieth century business community are faced with a fact of life, not a theory. Realistically, if we are to have any hope of solving the grave problems of our times, we must do everything possible under the existing system to maintain a strong, healthy and growing economy.

This requires a high degree of cooperation between business and government in numerous areas of our national life. Many of the tasks which need to be done are so formidable that government inevitably must play a part in them. Over the years, business can be proud of its record of cooperative, achievement with government, particularly in times of national emergency.

Lately, this partnership approach has given currency, to a newly-minted expression in Washington: "creative Federalism." As interpreted by Administration spokesmen, this concept envisages a broadly-based Federal effort to join hands with other levels of government and all types of private instructions in the work of improving America.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE RELUCTANT WORKERS

Management and labor tried to settle a steel strike by striking a settlement. After many months of negotiations, however, their negotiations produced no more fruit than a shoe tree. Consequently, the President of the United States instructed the Attorney General to go to court and obtain an order directing the workers to discontinue their strike.

"The strike is crippling the nation," the Attorney General pointed out to the judge. "It's ruining businesses that depend upon steel production and its causing people to lose their jobs. What's more, it's endangering the country's defense and space programs and it's playing havoc with national security. Consequently, the strikers MUST be ordered back to work.

"Not so fast," protested the strikers. "This isn't Russia. No one can order us to do anything we don't want to do. If a man wants to quit working, that's his business. And, we just don't want to go to work."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the strikers back to work?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that if the strike were permitted to continue it would imperil the national health and safety so as to cause irreparable injury to the United States: While an individual worker may have the right to quit his job, the judge noted, the strike was a concentrated work stoppage that did not involve the right of an "individual" employee to choose to stop working.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

An assault requires violence or the threat of violence so as to put a person in actual fear that he may be harmed. If a person is not put in such fear, there's been no assault. As an example, a sleeping person cannot be assaulted even if you point a gun at his head since he is unaware that his safety is being threatened.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are baffled. We don't know what to think. Our son-in-law decided he needed a vacation from our daughter. They had been married only 11 months and weren't getting along too well. I must admit she wasn't a very good wife. She couldn't manage on his income, borrowed from her father and me and nagged her husband constantly about insignificant things that should have been overlooked.

Our son-in-law went to Mexico by himself -- to "think things over." Our daughter moved back into her room so she wouldn't be alone in their apartment.

This morning we received a telegram from our son-in-law saying he will not be back for several months, and he is divorcing our daughter for reasons of illness.

What does this sound like to you? -- STUNNED PARENTS.

Dear Parents: It sounds like he is sick of her.

Dear Ann Landers: I am fed up and disgusted with people who say, "Honesty is the best policy."

Twice this week I was asked to give an honest opinion. Well, I gave an honest opinion and both times I got into terrible trouble. I have made an enemy for life and I was kicked out of English class for the rest of the term. In our school when you get kicked out of class you flunk the course and have to take it over again next semester.

You hear all these high sounding phrases about honesty being the best policy, but I have learned first - hand that it doesn't pay. A person is much better off to lie and stay out of trouble. So why don't you come right out and admit it since you pride yourself on giving good advice? -- TRUTH IS TROUBLE.

Dear Trouble: I notice that you did not provide a single detail of the incidents which brought forth your sterling qualities and landed you in trouble.

Many people delight in tearing friends to pieces, leaving not a shred of dignity and they call the butchery "being frank" or "simple honesty."

Yes, it pays to be honest, but it does not pay to be punitive and brutal. And this is probably your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: I wish those unhappy wives who have lost their husbands to "The Other Woman" would stop calling them "Tramps." True, some one-night stands deserve the name, but the majority of "Other Women" are intelligent, attractive and very much in love.

Sex alone will not hold a marriage together, nor will it sustain an affair. "The Other Woman" provides something the wife doesn't, otherwise she would not be in the picture. It might be compassion, understanding, adoration, or just old-fashioned appreciation for his presence. Maybe he just wants to be around someone who doesn't nag him, or belittle him, or make him feel inadequate.

So, wives, take stock of yourselves. If you want to keep your husbands happy don't give them any excuses to roam. There's an old saying that if you feed a man well at home he won't go to restaurants. -- KITTEN.

Dear Kitten: Some men prefer restaurants to home cooking just because it's different. The rest of your letter, however, makes a great deal of sense. Thank you for writing.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Elliott Named To PSC Post

JEFFERSON CITY AP — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Wednesday appointed Howard Elliott Jr., of St. Louis as a Republican member of the Missouri Public Service Commission -- the agency that regulates public utilities.

Elliott replaces Frank W. May, Flat River Republican, whose term will expire April 15. May 41, was appointed by former Gov. John M. Dalton in 1961.

Elliott is the son of a former speaker of the Missouri House who served in that powerful position in the 1945 - 47 session that had the monumental task of realigning state laws to fit a new state Constitution.

The elder Elliott was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1952.

Hearnes appointed Vincent James Ruddy, Democrat, of St. Louis County, as judge of Division 14 of the St. Louis County Circuit Court. He succeeds the late Judge Forrest Boecker.

Reappointed were John B. Ervin of St. Louis as a member of the State Commission on Human Rights and Mrs. Sinclair Gottlieb of Jefferson City to the Board of Regents of Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg.

1967 Missouri Highway Maps Now Ready For Distribution

The 1967 map can be obtained "free of charge" at the State Highway Department's Main Office in Jefferson City or at any of the ten district offices throughout the state and from other sources.

Request for maps should be directed to the Missouri State Highway Department at the following addresses:

Public Information Division, Main Office, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.
District 1, Box 287, St. Joseph, Mo. 64502.
District 2, Macon, Mo. 63552.
District 3, 4600 McMasters Ave., Hannibal, Mo. 63401.
District 4, 5117 East 31st St., Kansas City, Mo . 64128.
District 5, Highway 50 West, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.
District 6, 329 So. Kirkwood Rd., Kirkwood, Mo. 63122.
District 7, 410 Range Line Road, Joplin, Mo. 64801.
District 8, 1923 No. Weller, Springfield, Mo. 65801.
District 9, Willow Springs, Mo. 65587.
District 10, Sikeston, Mo. 63801.

Missouri's official 1967 state highway road maps will be ready for distribution to highway users Monday, April 10.

The Department has again this year made some revisions in the map to make it more usable for the highway user.

The new 1967 map shows all highways in the Missouri State Highway System as of December 31, 1966, as well as some sections of the Interstate highway system which are expected to be completed during the ensuing year.

On the front side of the new map there is a convenient index to many of Missouri's cities and villages for quick location along with their population. The front of the map carries a message to highway users from the Hon. Warren E. Hearnes, Governor of the State of Missouri.

As in past years, the reverse side of the map carries a mileage chart showing the travel distance between principal Missouri cities. There are also individual maps depicting the highway routes in and through 47 Missouri cities.

AFRICAN HOT SPOT-- France Keeps the Peace

French Somaliland, a tiny patch of desert, hardly seems worth the trouble, but France is determined to stay. The colony's port of Djibouti is vital to Ethiopia, but the Somali Republic would like to seize it. If that happened, war might break out in East Africa, dragging in the great powers.

DJIBOUTI, FRENCH SOMALILAND (AP) - A suspect referendum, mass deportations and a sledge hammer military action have strengthened the French grip on their last little colony in Africa.

But by keeping French Somaliland, French President Charles de Gaulle may have averted a conflict embroiling Africa's eastern horn in a war threatening to involve the United States and Russia. "French presence in this troubled region is the keystone to an arch" said Governor Louis Saget on the referendum eve. "If it were withdrawn, equilibrium and peace might be threatened."

Saget's remark was a clue to French determination to remain in this arid patch of sand and scrub no bigger than New Hampshire. The French have ruled it for 80 years.

Following three days of riot and violence which greeted his visit here last August, De Gaulle promised the colony a referendum to decide its future. It was given the choice of independence or continued association with France.

With the electors list heavily weighted against those in favor of independence, the referendum result was never seriously in doubt. Of the colony's 125,000 people, 58,000 are Somalis and 48,000 Afars. The rest are French and Arabs.

Almost to a man the Somalis wanted independence, with a possible view to eventual union with the neighboring Somali Republic. The Afars, their traditional foes, were happy to stay with France. On the voters list there are 14,000 Somalis as against 22,000 Afars.

The French took no chances between De Gaulle's visit and the March 19 referendum. At least 6,000 Somalis were expelled to the Somali Republic. A United Nations request to observe the ballot was ignored.

The referendum ran true to form and so, too, did the violence which greeted its predictable result - 22,555 votes for France, 14,666 for indepence.

Swollen by reinforcements to more than 7,000, French troops and police were braced for trouble. The Somalis, concentrated in the capital of Djibouti, ran riot through the streets and alleys of their shantytown district. Gov. Saget claims many were armed with guns, knives or Molotov cocktails, and were incited by political leaflets to rebellion and civil war. Newsmen who watched the action saw only stones in Somali hands.

Backed by armored cars with machine guns blazing, French troops moved ruthlessly against the demonstrators. Within 20 minutes they had stormed hastily erected barricades and ground resistance into the dust. At least 12 and perhaps as many as 20 Somalis died in the one-sided battle. Three Frenchmen were slightly injured.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was clamped on Djibouti's African quarter and curfew-breakers shot on sight. Paratroops and Foreign Legionnaires went from shack to shack rounding up thousands of Somali men and women. They were trucked off to a desert detention camp to await deportation.

But the Somali Republic refused to admit them and back they went to the detention camp. Saget charged the Mogadishu government with "deception" and with turning its back on brother Somalis.

French officials reported plans for establishing a permanet penal settlement for 500 hardcore nationalists, and for handing over another 1,500 to the Ethiopians, who like Afars, are longtime Somali enemies.

About 3,000 eventually will be released after screening, and permitted to remain in the colony provided they behave themselves, said French officials.

With the commercial center of Djibouti slowly returning to normal, the city's African quarter looks like an occupied enemy capital. Sandbagged strongpoints bristle with machine guns and Africans are continually stopped for identity checks. The area is stiff with troops.

Afars from outlying regions have been brought in to work, and Gov. Saget announced new development plans for the colony, concentrating almost exclusively on the north. There seemed little future for a Somali in French Somaliland and many planned to leave. The French could not be more pleased.

Saget reports Ethiopian and Somali Republic troops are in position around the colony's border, but the referendum result probably has averted a clash which seemed likely had the vote gone the other way. Its port and 486-mile railroad linking with Addis Ababa are the colony's sole claims to importance.

Djibouti still is Ethiopia's main outlet to the sea and a vote for independence would have endangered that outlet. Emperor Haile Selassie threatened to move in if Ethiopia's interests were jeopardized. In Mogadishu the government of the Somali Republic vowed to use force to prevent any such takeover.

Kenya, whose north-eastern region is claimed by the Somalis, is linked with Ethiopia by a mutual defense treaty. The Ethiopian army, 40,000 strong, is trained and equipped by the United States, and American advisors serve with its four divisions. The Somali army of 9,000 is trained and equipped by the Soviet Union.

Thus a clash between the two states over French Somaliland could have set off a conflict threatening the stability of much of eastern Africa, and involving two great powers. However it was obtained, the colony's vote for the French to stay has likely been greeted with relief in several foreign capitals.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. (Acts 22:15)

PRAYER: Dear Father, how thankful we are for the sending of Jesus Christ into the world. We are grateful beyond measure that He has saved our souls. Unloose our tongues and lighten our feet that we may be witnesses for our living Lord, in whose name we pray. Amen.

In our parish. St. Theresa's in Phoenix, Ariz., the rectory received the following Christmas card the month after the congregation had started responding to the Mass in English.

"To the good Sisters and Fathers of St. Theresa's. Before we abandon Latin in its entirety, may I sincerely wish 'a pax on both your houses'."

large.

When he was greeted by the FBI and his family at the apartment, "Kenny was very calm, not hysterical or crying," Young said. "He said, 'Hi, dad, I'm awfully sleepy.' He acted as if he expected it to end all the time. it was like he'd never been gone."

As Kenneth was examined by a doctor and put to bed in the lavish Young home in a fashionable neighborhood, his father calmly described the abduction and the ransom payment. Police theorized that Kenneth was kidnaped as he slept by someone who knew that an outside staircase on the large white house led to a glass door near the boy's bedroom.

A maid discovered Kenneth's empty bed Monday morning and took Young a note she found warning him not to call the police and describing how to turn over $250,000 for the boy's return.

"As soon as we read that note, my wife and I agreed that the thing to do was to call the police immediately," Young recalled. The family and authorities maintained the secret while scores of policemen and FBI agents went to work.

Dressed in a blue polo shirt, black slacks and a tan windbreaker, dragging on a cigarette occasionally, the slightly graying Young sat back in a wicker chair in a spacious room.

"I had half a dozen phone calls Monday but the party at the other end never spoke to me," he said. "Last night I did as the letter said and drove to the phone booth. The call came at 6 p.m. and the man said, 'are you Herbert?'

"He spoke in a slow, soft voice. He sounded very intelligent. I then drove to the gas station and waited beside my car. About 45 minutes later a white Chevy Impala slowed down right in front of the station. The individual motioned me to follow him."

Young followed the man's car to a clear gravel area. The man asked for the bag.

"He had his left hand free but his right hand was in his jacket. I didn't know if he was armed. I gave him the bag. Then I came back home.

"The next call was about 4 a.m. Kenny was on the phone and said he had been drugged with three sleeping pills and was in a man's apartment in Santa Monica. Then a man came to the phone and said, 'I have your son here; he's fine, but he's tired.'"

Young did not disclose how many abductors his son described. He said Kenneth would return on Monday to his fifth grade classes at Beverly Hills elementary school

Young, who heads an organization with assets of $423.5 million, was sleeping with his wife Arline when Kenneth disappeared. A maid and their other children—a 3-year-old girl and boys 13 and 6 — were sleeping in bedrooms farther away from the second floor door than Kenneth's.

Fire Causes Minor Damage

Fire broke out in the attic of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poole's residence at 822 Ruth, this morning and damaged a mattress and springs in the attic.

Smoke and water damage was caused to the attic. The downstairs of the wood frame house received minor smoke damage.

No one was at home when the fire occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Poole were in Cape Girardeau.

The fire apparently started in some cardboard boxes in the attic, firemen reported.

Smoke issuing from the east side of the house was noticed at about 9:20 a.m. by Joe Deal, a neighbor. He told another neighbor Joe Sherrod, 817 Ruth, to turn in the alarm.

Cause of the fire is undetermined, firemen said. Firemen extinguished the fire and cleared the attic of smoke in about an hour.

CINCINNATI AP - Jerry Lucas and Happy Hairston signed Wednesday to play again next season for the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association.

Payoff Frees Kidnaped Boy

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., (AP)—A Beverly Hills financier described today how his 11-year-old son was kidnaped without a hitch, then returned unharmed after a large ransom was paid.

Herbert J. Young, 35, president of Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association, said $250,000 ransom was asked for his son Kenneth, but he did not disclose the amount paid.

Kenneth was bound and blindfolded early today in a car parked in an apartment house garage in nearby Santa Monica. After obeying instructions to wait for a half-hour, he worked loose and ran to the nearest apartment to call his parents. He had been missing since early Monday.

The FBI said the kidnapers picked up the ransom Wednesday in Westwood a few miles from Beverly Hills and were at

The operations of the public water supply serving Sikeston were complimented today by A. R. Baron, Poplar Bluff, district sanitary engineer of the division of health of Missouri, Dick Inman, manager of the Board of Public Works, reported.

Baron stated in letter to the board that officials and personnel concerned with the operation are to be congratulated on their interest in the utility.

Baron suggested that the city send a water plant employe to a one - week course to be trained and licensed as an operator at the Water and Sewage Technical School in Neosho.

Inman said the city expects to send Glenn R. Jones, an experienced operator to the school.

School Census Will Be Taken

The school enumeration for the public school district will be taken by freshmen during April.

This census, required by state law, must be taken every five years. On the basis of the enumeration the state provides financial aid to the schools.

Every residence will be canvassed. All persons under 20, married or single, in service, in college, or working in another town, who calls a house his home, must be enumerated. They do not have to be in school.

Social studies classes will conduct the count.

The district has been divided into 24 sections. Students will be responsible for taking the census in areas in which they live. Parent supervisors will assist the students.

Parents can help the census taker by having available the names, birthdates, ages and relationship of all persons living in their home under 20.

Parents who have questions or if the census takers fail to reach them, may contact Ernest Elledge, junior high school principal, telephone GR-1-5150, or Tony Statler, administrative assistant, telephone GR 1-4454, who will be in charge of the census.

Dexter to Vote On Bond Issue

The water line would be extended from the New International Hat Co. plant to the new Dexter Memorial hospital.

In other business Harry Jennings of the public housing authority requested the council to pass a resolution to extend the city water and sewer lines to the proposed public housing site in the Rainey Cabin area on highway 114 west.

The water line is now 200 feet from the site, and the sewer line is 415 feet away. The council passed the resolution.

At a previous meeting C. R. Trotter and Associates, consultants, suggested that the city apply for federal funds for public works planning. City attorney Paul McGee, this week, presented the council a copy of the application and explained it. The council took no action but is expected to approve the application later.

James Hubbard, civil defense director, reported that he is trying to obtain matching funds through the office of civil defense for purchasing two sets of two - way radios. Cost of the radios is about $1,400.

Morehouse Awarded U.S. Grant

MOREHOUSE -- The Federal Water Pollution Control administration has approved a $31,620 grant to the city for the new sewerage treatment system.

On Nov. 1, 1966, voters approved by a 6-1 margin a $160,000 revenue bond issue and a $180,000 general obligation bond issue for a sewer system and improvements to the water system.

The federal grant will be used for three lift stations, force main and waste stabilization lagoon west of the city.

Williams and Associates of St. Louis, consulting engineers, are in Morehouse this week making a final survey for the sewer system, City Clerk Manuel Taylor said today. They have already surveyed for the lagoon.

After the engineers' plan has been approved by the state health department, the city can advertise for bids, Taylor said.

Hearnes Sees Bright Future In Lead Belt

IRONTON AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today the mining area of southeastern Missouri has a future of unlimited opportunities.

"You are fortunate," he said, "fortunate because you can look forward to economic improvement and at the same time live in an environment few other Missourians are privileged to enjoy.

"Your iron supply has been estimated to last at least 100 years and the lead potential is estimated in millions of tons. Add the other resources of the area and you have a future offering unlimited opportunities."

The governor made his comments in a speech prepared for a meeting at Arcadia Valley High School in Ironton after an aerial tour of the mining areas of Iron and Reynolds counties and a stop to look at the Pilot Knob pellet plant.

Housewife Winner in Grocery War

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Remember the housewives' rebellion against supermarkets last fall? Well, one chain took the ladies at their word and now the grocery stores in southern Florida are at war with each other. The housewife is coming out a winner.

Eighty-eight stores in the Winn-Dixie chain today rounded out a week in a no-stamps, no-games, no-gimmicks marketing experiment featuring only lower prices. The boss said it is a success.

"There's not a chance in the world we will return to stamps," said O. W. Waldorf, chief of the Vero Beach-to-Miami division.

Other chains have struck back with advertising campaigns, insisting they will have lower prices and stamps.

"Rest assured," said a one-page ad showing a pretty, smiling housewife resting her cheek on a stampbook, "We won't take away your stamps." Another ad proclaims that stamps are "an American tradition."

But Waldorf said he isn't worried. "We have been surprised at the very few complaints we have received from giving up stamps."

Shoppers interviewed in the stores, most of which carry the name "Kwik-Chek," are also happy.

"I'll take money anytime," said Linda Thomas. Another housewife, carrying a pocket-size adding device, said she had saved almost a dollar on a $9 order.

Waldorf won't claim that kind of savings for every shopper. But he promises that the lower prices on all 7,000 items will be the same every day, not just on weekends.

For example, T-bone steaks came down 31 cents, a pound of bacon 11 cents, a can of applesauce 4 cents. Even prepackaged food with the price marked by the processor, such as potato chips or cookies, have been cut a penny or two. The old price is marked out.

Waldorf, 48, said he started thinking about the multimillion-dollar experiment when the housewives boycotted last fall to protest high prices. He set up a single store without stamps and watched the reaction.

"We decided that the people in our area were ready for lower prices and less frills," said the veteran of 30 years in retail food sales.

He closed his stores for five

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We believe that the citizens of Sikeston should have an opportunity to vote for an industrial levy for Sikeston.

Because we believe an industrial levy will provide the funds -

To offer prospective industries a desirable industrial site with utilities, etc., in Sikeston.

To help develop more jobs for our people and better payrolls for all.

Our new vocational training classes will train our young people in skills but it is an industrial levy that will keep them here in our community as wage earners.

So we can compete with many other cities who can offer aid to new industries.

HOPE IN A HUNGRY WORLD

Public opinion polls generally place such things as the Viet Nam war, the cost of living and racial strife at the head of the list of great issues that concern people the most. But one growing problem over-riding all others is that of world-wide population growth. Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, speaking on this problem, called it, "the most challenging crisis for the rest of this century," and he speaks with good reason. World population in the year 1887 was 1.3 billion persons. By 1957, just 70 years later, it doubled to 2.6 billion. By the year 2000, careful projections indicate a world population of 6 billion people must be provided with a minimum diet in order to exist.

In the matter of food production, the United States has become the shining hope of the world for the simple reason that it has demonstrated what modern technology can do to increase the productivity of the land. Free enterprise agriculture, coupled with revolutionary advances in the development and use of machinery, chemical fertilizers and pesticides, has produced dramatic results. Take but a few typical crops. Corn production in the 1925-29 period approximated 26 bushels per acre. In 1965, it was estimated at 72 bushels. Wheat yield per acre went from about 14 bushels to 27. Cotton production has trebled in the last 30 years. Milk production per cow nearly doubled in the same period. In the forefront of the list of tools upon which we must increasingly depend to augment agricultural production are pesticide chemicals - the wide variety of insecticides, fungicides, weed killers, rodent destroyers, and plant growth regulators available for safe use in food production, processing and marketing.

The United States, among the developed countries, faces the challenge of playing a decisive leadership in helping teach two thirds of the world's people how to produce enough food to feed themselves. Advanced agricultural techniques cannot be applied overnight in countries with vastly differing eating habits, crop requirements and political systems. U.S. agricultural progress itself depends upon public understanding of our economic system of free markets and private enterprise. This system provides the incentives to create and apply the constant flow of technological developments on which we and the rest of the world's people depend for survival.

Nothing was said about the other 3 per cent so we would presume that figure covers the wrong numbers.

UPLAND BROOKS

There is music in the air as April works along. Robins and bluebirds welcome the dawn from the orchard behind the barn; cock pheasants challenge from the woodland's edge and flickers shout from the fields. Wood pewees' plaintive arias drift from the woodland and a partridge's drum call reverberates from the sugar lot.

It is good to go forth on a pleasant day, climb the upland pasture and listen to the music of the brook. It sings down the rocky slope, clear water in a gravelly bed, and swirls against the grassy banks.

The pulsing urgency of spring is in the fast-flowing water. It leaps over little ledges and seethes in bubbling foam in small pools. Drops are flung into the air and the sun reflects glints of color in the air-borne spray.

Down the brown-grass slope it rushes, hurrying to join the large brook in the lowland which in turn flows into a river on its way to a distant sea.

Listen to the music. In it one can hear part of earth's everlasting symphony. There are deep, haunting alto tones, lighter strains from the flutes and violins, and occasionally near a little waterfall one can hear the deep, resonant tones of the bass fiddles.

From 10 times 10,000 hills, small brooks are hurrying down the hillsides. In midsummer they may be small trickles, but now in spring they are running full and making music as they speed down from the heights.

Clear, cool water is one of nature's gifts, and the music of the upland brooks is part of the heartlift of spring.

HATED EVERY MINUTE

Every once in awhile - say, once in a generation - there will come along a man whose complete honesty of expression is appealingly refreshing, even if not the sort to bring invitations to centers of polite social gabbing.

Such a man is Al Jones, who has retired after 48 years on the Greenville (S.C.) News.

After his retirement, Mr. Jones said he never did enjoy working on the News. "I enjoyed working on the News more than any other paper I ever worked, but I didn't enjoy working anywhere," he observed. "I just don't like work."

NEW YORK (AP) —Remarks that a federal income tax collector gets tired of hearing at this time of the year:

"Well, you can't get blood out of a turnip."

"What do you guys do with all the money you collect—pour it down ratholes?"

"I own a night club joint. Does that mean I should fill out a joint income tax form."

"Not that I mind supporting my own government, but why do I have to help support every government in the whole world?"

"Business is business. In my business we give 10 per cent off for cash. Why shouldn't you give me 10 per cent off if I pay cash."

"Irving, don't you recognize me? I used to babysit for you when you were a little boy. Can't you take a little off my tax for old time's sake? After all, who's looking?"

"It isn't the money with me, I assure you. It's the principle of the thing."

"You say I owe you $417. I say you owe me a $312 refund. Okay, why don't we just toss a coin and settle it that way? What'll you call—heads or tails?"

"Why don't you put a tax on salt, like they did in the olden times? Go ahead, you won't worry me. I'm on a salt-free diet."

"I brought my little daughter Elsa along. Elsa, say hello to the nice gover'ment fella. Show him the patches on your dress, the holes in your shoes, then ask him what he's trying to do to your poor papa."

"There's only one way to spell bureaucrat, and it always winds up with the same three letters."

"Why can't I meet you at that little bar down the street after you're through work for the day, and you and I can talk this whole thing over quietly, man to man, in a more congenial atmosphere? Naturally, I'm buying."

"Who drew up the government's tax forms this year—Phyllis Diller?"

"Well, here's my return. Tell me, where do they serve the best chow—in the Atlanta or the Leavenworth penitentiary?"

"Now that I've paid my tax, can you tell me where I go to sign up for the federal antipoverty program?"

"What Happened to the Parade?"

DEBT INTEREST PAYMENTS EQUAL $219 PER HOUSEHOLD

One pressing question that will demand an answer as the 90th Congress begins, says Tax Foundation, Inc., is: how long can Uncle Sam's debt be kept beneath the "temporary" $330 billion ceiling fixed for it last May?

Debt (and the interest on it) bulks large in any Federal budget. Of the items in the original fiscal 1967, $112.8 billion budget, interest on debt was the second most costly.

Only the military functions of the Defense Department command bigger amounts. Payments for interest are now equivalent to $219 per U.S. household, as estimated by the Foundation.

The "permanent" debt ceiling is $285 billion. But it has long ceased to be much more than an outmoded benchmark. The "temporary" ceiling has grown from $324 billion to $330 billion within the past two years.

When a new "temporary" ceiling was proposed at $332 billion last Spring, Congress balked and set the $330 figure. The Treasury said it accepted the ceiling "reluctantly" and a spokesman then said there likely would be another boost asked before fiscal 1967 ended (next June 30).

It was pointed out that the ceiling figure requested involved $3 billion for a contingency reserve. With only $330 billion to work on, said the Treasury spokesman, this figure was deemed "too thin a margin for prudent operation."

Payments for interest have gone from $7.3 billion ten years ago to the current $12.9 billion.

Federal debt interest payments by selected fiscal years and on a per household basis are shown below as follows:

F.Y., Int. Payments (in mill.$) Per Household

1957, $7,307, 147

"In the name of consensus," he declared, "we find Government telling labor and management what wages are acceptable, telling aluminum producers what prices are justified, telling banks what rates are permissible. In the name of consensus, we find press criticism of the Government frowned upon, and critical suggestions from the business community brushed aside."

The Administration's desire to limit its opposition by pressure for general "consensus" is contrary to the two-way exchange of viewpoints so characteristic and important to self-government. The strongest pillar of our political philosophy is the assurance that opposing views are not rejected for the sake of expediency. Everytime that philosophy is ignored, the right of citizens to determine their own destiny diminishes.

Washington Merry · Go · Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Things have not been going well for Adam Clayton Powell on the sun-kissed island of Bimini. His self-imposed exile in the paradise has begun to pall, and his words to newsmen, "Why go back to Washington when you can enjoy a place like this?" have developed a very hollow ring.

Things have become so difficult that Adam's closest advisers are working feverishly to get him back to New York before he displays in public what they have already seen in private - the signs of developing paranoia.

For a man who once flew all the way to the Bandung conference in Indonesia to defend the United States against the Chinese communists and who as chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee passed some of the most important education and labor laws in history, it's a pathetic picture.

"One minute he's pleasant and charming and the next minute he's cutting your guts out," confessed one supporter who had flown down to Bimini to help. "That's why they can't get anyone to go down there except the dissidents and the third-partyites. Adam thinks everyone down there is spying on him."

The End of the World Bar has also lost its appeal; and even Corinne Huff, first Negro girl to win the Miss Ohio Beauty Contest, who has been living with Adam in South Bimini, appears unhappy.

ADAM'S ISOLATION

Part of the trouble is the New York courts. Until it's certain that Adam won't be arrested when he returns, his supporters are trying to keep someone on the island to dispel his sense of isolation and abandonment.

To this end they are sending out calls - some almost threats of political retaliation - to prominent Negroes around the country to come to Bimini to stand up and be counted as friends of Adam. This, however, has not been easy. Powell has insulted too many of his friends. Even when Chuck Stone, former editor of the Afro-American and Adam's most faithful staff member, came to Bimini, he was kept waiting 24 hours before Powell would give him a private audience.

To bolster both Adam's public image and his self-reliance, negotiations are under way to get widely respected civil rights leaders, ranging from Philip Randolph of the sleeping car porters' union to Martin Luther King and Whitney Young of the urban league, to come to the island. In return Powell would keep his mouth shut - no more TV press conferences showing Adam apparently under the influence of too many scotches.

Some newspapers have reported that Adam is not concerned about the prospects of being arrested if he returns to New York. In Miami, however, when he flew there to have an election paper notarized, he appeared to be very much concerned. He remained at the airport only 20 munutes. If he is arrested, he wants to be tapped in Harlem amid his constituents.

There was a time when Adam didn't give a hoot about his public image. Thumbing his nose at white men made him a hero back in Harlem. But those days have changed.

After front-page newspaper stories featured him with a bosomy fire dancer in the End of the World Bar - pictures which also inspired the wrath of Corinne Huff - Adam was persuaded that he must improve his image.

END OF THE WORLD

This was what started his series of weekend outdoor sermons on the island. They were attended chiefly by curious American tourists. Few natives came to be converted. To them, Adam was old hat.

At a press conference on the Monday before Palm Sunday Powell distributed palms to a pack of Tallahassee boy scouts who had been corralled for the specific purpose of having their picture taken. The palms, according to Adam, had been gathered by island children for Palm Sunday services. Actually they had been cut only a few minutes before from a dead palm branch, not by children but by Powell's boat captain.

When the stage was set for the palm presentation, someone went to the End of the World Bar to tell Adam all was ready. He then came out to Brown's courtyard to announce that he would enter Harlem the following Sunday just as Jesus entered Jerusalem, triumphant on Palm Sunday - except Adam noted he would not be riding on the foal of an ass.

Shortly thereafter when he heard that the court contempt order would not be revoked, Adam revoked his own plans for returning triumphant to Harlem.

Actually Adam is not having the gay time many people think. Every morning he fishes alone except for the company of his captain. Every afternoon he drinks scotch while playing dominoes in the End of the World Bar. Corinne Huff's nerves appear frayed. She doesn't enjoy having tourists focus their cameras on her and either ducks down in the fishing boat or stays home alone.

Those responsible for clearing the legal road for Adams' return to New York have been warned by close friends that if he remains on the island in the sun too much longer, it may be for Adam truly the end of the world.

Such is the penalty not so much for using airplane credit cards, which other congressmen have done, but of ignoring your wife while at the same time cashing her salary checks. It was the testimony of Adam's rejected wife, Yvette, which hurt him most.

H. L. Hunt Says

REFORM THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Article II, Section I of the U. S. Constitution provides: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." Electors are directed by the Constitution to vote in their respective States, and Congress is authorized to count their votes.

To win, a presidential candidate must have a majority in the electoral college, but a President can be elected with less than a majority of the votes. In fact, this has happened 11 times in our history. This country has had nine minority Presidents, with two (Cleveland and Wilson) serving two terms as minority Presidents.

Before adoption of the Twelfth Amendment (1804) the House of Representatives, voting by States (with one vote for each State), chose the President from the five candidates having the largest number of electoral votes. After the choice of the President, the candidate having the greatest number of votes of electors became Vice-President. In event of a tie, the Senate would choose the Vice-President. The Twelfth Amendment provided that electors would henceforth vote for President and Vice-President separately.

Under the present system, every four years the American people run the risk of electing a minority President. The system is antiquated and discriminatory. For example, a candidate whose share of popular votes is only one more than that of his nearest rival in a State receives all that State's electoral votes.

The Legislatures of 12 States so far have passed resolutions calling for reform of the Electoral College. Twenty-six more States following their example could result in the correcting of this situation. Contacting your State Legislators can help preserve the tradition of a great Republic. HLH.

Inside Labor

Spring Time Offensive Govt. Probing 50,000 Unions On Handling of Negroes.

Washington, D.C.: -- Actually it isn't even spring but the government, on a signal from the White House, is moving along a massive front to head off the oft threatened long hot summer.

One agency is about to check 50,000 unions and 7,000 apprenticeship programs to learn how many keep Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Mexican - Americans, American Indians and Orientals from getting in and getting jobs.

FBI teams have been spot-checking huge construction sites and lush suburban communities in search of a "pattern of discrimination."

Union leaders and employers running joint training schools -- which feed young newly skilled workers into huge building projects worth scores of billions of dollars -- are quietly being told they'll suddenly be hacked off from federal money conduits and contracts if they don't train and hire Negroes.

Specific unions, such as the big plumbers and pipe fitters organization which has some 25,000 young men in the training mill, are being picked for open and scathing scorn by the wrathful Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

Union chiefs threatening to bolt the "Party" and declare political war if they are "prosecuted" are told quietly they must stop catering to the big rebellious locals which are politically powerful in the international union. If the national leaders persist in their threat to join the opposition, they are being told politely to do it by way of first jumping into the Potomac.

This massive movement -- unleashed by the Justice Dept., which plans to haul some of the local unions into court soon, and by the Labor Dept. and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission -- is in part an answer to the criticism by the Rev. Martin Luther King who has threatened to make the summer hotter.

And partly, the offensive is a response to the urgings of such organizations as the moderate Urban League and the N.A.A.C.P. whose Boston convention President Johnson may address in mid-July.

The federal campaign at this very minute also springs from the confidential reports of some frustrated national labor leaders who say privately that they simply can't control the defiant local baronies.

So after some two years of juggling with verbiage the government has prepared a questionnaire for dispatch to all unions in the land. There have been public hearings on the wording.

The document now is at the Bureau of the Budget which, for some mysterious ancestral reason, must approve all government forms. Then it will hit the mail -- certainly within the next month.

". . .The Commission has proceeded and will proceed with equal vigor with the unions as well as employers," said Stephen Shulman, E.E.O.C. chairman, "since both are covered by the statute.

"The new union reporting forms will be called EEO-2 and EEO-3.

"Our research indicates that form EEO-2 will bring responses from 7,000 joint labor-management apprentice programs registered with state or federal agencies plus an undetermined number from unregistered joint programs as well as from unilateral employer or union programs.

"Form EEO - 3 we estimate will bring responses from some 50,000 industrial and referral type unions."

That will set the record. The Commission has no enforcement powers. But its record will be explosive. The new questionnaire -- which will demand that labor report on operations during August, September and October -- asks some mighty pertinent questions:

It wants to know whether there are any clauses in the constitution or bylaws or in practice which keeps Negroes, Spanish-Americans, American Indians and Orientals out of any of the unions.

It wants to know if applicants for membership in the unions which control the labor force in the highest paying (and lowest, too) areas must have a sponsor. It wants to know how many applicants there have been, and how many of these have been Negroes, etc., and how many have been admitted and how many have been referred to jobs.

It's tough. But that's how the government means it to be. And to have an unpunishable record during the three-month late summer and early fall period, the unions will have to open their books and jobs in late spring and early summer. And the federals want to know where the unions are keeping the records upon which they base their replies.

Then will come the analysis -- and action -- probably by the Justice Dept.'s Civil Rights Division. It was to this office, for example, that the FBI dispatched the results of its search for a "pattern of discrimination" in union membership and hiring in a New York City suburb where a $25 million construction project is underway.

Obviously the government has decided to stop playing it cool so it can head off the threatened hot weather rioting.

HOPE IN A HUNGRY WORLD

Public opinion polls generally place such things as the Viet Nam war, the cost of living and racial strife at the head of the list of great issues that concern people the most. But one growing problem over-riding all others is that of world-wide population growth. Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, speaking on this problem, called it, "the most challenging crisis for the rest of this century," and he speaks with good reason. World population in the year 1887 was 1.3 billion persons. By 1957, just 70 years later, it doubled to 2.6 billion. By the year 2000, careful projections indicate a world population of 6 billion people must be provided with a minimum diet in order to exist.

In the matter of food production, the United States has become the shining hope of the world for the simple reason that it has demonstrated what modern technology can do to increase the productivity of the land. Free enterprise agriculture, coupled with revolutionary advances in the development and use of machinery, chemical fertilizers and pesticides, has produced dramatic results. Take but a few typical crops. Corn production in the 1925-29 period approximated 26 bushels per acre. In 1965, it was estimated at 72 bushels. Wheat yield per acre went from about 14 bushels to 27. Cotton production has trebled in the last 30 years. Milk production per cow nearly doubled in the same period. In the forefront of the list of tools upon which we must increasingly depend to augment agricultural production are pesticide chemicals - the wide variety of insecticides, fungicides, weed killers, rodent destroyers, and plant growth regulators available for safe use in food production, processing and marketing.

The United States, among the developed countries, faces the challenge of playing a decisive leadership in helping teach two thirds of the world's people how to produce enough food to feed themselves. Advanced agricultural techniques cannot be applied overnight in countries with vastly differing eating habits, crop requirements and political systems. U.S. agricultural progress itself depends upon public understanding of our economic system of free markets and private enterprise. This system provides the incentives to create and apply the constant flow of technological developments on which we and the rest of the world's people depend for survival.

NEW YORK (AP) —Remarks that a federal income tax collector gets tired of hearing at this time of the year:

"Well, you can't get blood out of a turnip."

"What do you guys do with all the money you collect—pour it down ratholes?"

"I own a night club joint. Does that mean I should fill out a joint income tax form."

"Not that I mind supporting my own government, but why do I have to help support every government in the whole world?"

"Business is business. In my business we give 10 per cent off for cash. Why shouldn't you give me 10 per cent off if I pay cash."

"Irving, don't you recognize me? I used to babysit for you when you were a little boy. Can't you take a little off my tax for old time's sake? After all, who's looking?"

"Can I list a sponge as a dependent? I'm speaking of my brother-in-law. That no-goodnik has been sponging off me ever since I married his sister."

"It isn't the money with me, I assure you. It's the principle of the thing."

"You say I owe you $417. I say you owe me a $312 refund. Okay, why don't we just toss a coin and settle it that way? What'll you call—heads or tails?"

"Why don't you put a tax on salt, like they did in the olden times? Go ahead, you won't worry me. I'm on a salt-free diet."

"I brought my little daughter Elsa along. Elsa, say hello to the nice gover'ment fella. Show him the patches on your dress, the holes in your shoes, then ask him what he's trying to do to your poor papa."

"There's only one way to spell bureaucrat, and it always winds up with the same three letters."

"Why can't I meet you at that little bar down the street after you're through work for the day, and you and I can talk this whole thing over quietly, man to man, in a more congenial atmosphere? Naturally, I'm buying."

"Who drew up the government's tax forms this year—Phyllis Diller?"

"Well, here's my return. Tell me, where do they serve the best chow—in the Atlanta or the Leavenworth penitentiary?"

"Now that I've paid my tax, can you tell me where I go to sign up for the federal antipoverty program?"

"What Happened to the Parade?"

SAVAGE SORICIDAE

Ounce for ounce (which is what it weighs), the short-tailed shrew is the busiest killer in the world, the Catholic Digest reports. Awake, the shrew is almost always preparing to kill, is killing, or has just killed, and its victims include rodents, reptiles, birds, and mammals several times its own size. It must daily consume the equivalent of its own body weight in order to keep the inner fires burning.

DEBT INTEREST PAYMENTS EQUAL $219 PER HOUSEHOLD

One pressing question that will demand an answer as the 90th Congress begins, says Tax Foundation, Inc., is: how long can Uncle Sam's debt be kept beneath the "temporary" $330 billion ceiling fixed for it last May?

Debt (and the interest on it) bulks large in any Federal budget. Of the items in the original fiscal 1967, $112.8 billion budget, interest on debt was the second most costly.

Only the military functions of the Defense Department command bigger amounts. Payments for interest are now equivalent to $219 per U.S. household, as estimated by the Foundation.

The "permanent" debt ceiling is $285 billion. But it has long ceased to be much more than an outmoded benchmark. The "temporary" ceiling has grown from $324 billion to $330 billion within the past two years.

When a new "temporary" ceiling was proposed at $332 billion last Spring, Congress balked and set the $330 figure. The Treasury said it accepted the ceiling "reluctantly" and a spokesman then said there likely would be another boost asked before fiscal 1967 ended (next June 30).

It was pointed out that the ceiling figure requested involved $3 billion for a contingency reserve. With only $330 billion to work on, said the Treasury spokesman, this figure was deemed "too thin a margin for prudent operation."

Payments for interest have gone from $7.3 billion ten years ago to the current $12.9 billion.

Federal debt interest payments by selected fiscal years and on a per household basis are shown below as follows: F.Y., Int. Payments (in mill.$) Per Household 1947, $5,012, $128.

1957, $7,307, 147

"CONSENSUS COMPLEX"

The peoples' right to control forces which bring about dramatic economic and social changes in this country is being impaired by the "consensus complex" in Washington, D.C. phenomena is stifling constructive critical comment on government policies "to an extent that is dangerous to our national life."

"In the name of consensus," he declared, "we find Government telling labor and management what wages are acceptable, telling aluminum producers what prices are justified, telling banks what rates are permissible. In the name of consensus, we find press criticism of the Government frowned upon, and critical suggestions from the business community brushed aside."

The Administration's desire to limit its opposition by pressure for general "consensus" is contrary to the two-way exchange of viewpoints so characteristic and important to self-government. The strongest pillar of our political philosophy is the assurance that opposing views are not rejected for the sake of expediency. Everytime that philosophy is ignored, the right of citizens to determine their own destiny diminishes.

DON'T RUSH, GIRLS

There was a gal who was always telling off-color jokes, much to the annoyance of the other girls in her office. The girls finally got together and decided to walk out on her the next time she told one. Two days later she came in from lunch, babbling:

"I heard a dilly today. Seems they're assembling a boatload of girls to ship to Vietnam for the troops."

Upon which all of the other girls got up and started to leave the office, as pre-arranged.

"Hey, what's all the hurry?" yelled the raconteur. "The boat doesn't leave 'til Wednesday."

Washington Merry · Go · Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Things have not been going well for Adam Clayton Powell on the sun-kissed island of Bimini. His self-imposed exile in the paradise has begun to pall, and his words to newsmen, "Why go back to Washington when you can enjoy a place like this?" have developed a very hollow ring.

Things have become so difficult that Adam's closest advisers are working feverishly to get him back to New York before he displays in public what they have already seen in private - the signs of developing paranoia.

For a man who once flew all the way to the Bandung conference in Indonesia to defend the United States against the Chinese communists and who as chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee passed some of the most important education and labor laws in history, it's a pathetic picture.

"One minute he's pleasant and charming and the next minute he's cutting your guts out," confessed one supporter who had flown down to Bimini to help. "That's why they can't get anyone to go down there except the dissidents and the third-partyites. Adam thinks everyone down there is spying on him."

The End of the World Bar has also lost its appeal; and even Corinne Huff, first Negro girl to win the Miss Ohio Beauty Contest, who has been living with Adam in South Bimini, appears unhappy.

ADAM'S ISOLATION

Part of the trouble is the New York courts. Until it's certain that Adam won't be arrested when he returns, his supporters are trying to keep someone on the island to dispel his sense of isolation and abandonment.

To this end they are sending out calls - some almost threats of political retaliation - to prominent Negroes around the country to come to Bimini to stand up and be counted as friends of Adam. This, however, has not been easy. Powell has insulted too many of his friends. Even when Chuck Stone, former editor of the Afro-American and Adam's most faithful staff member, came to Bimini, he was kept waiting 24 hours before Powell would give him a private audience.

To bolster both Adam's public image and his self-reliance, negotiations are under way to get widely respected civil rights leaders, ranging from Philip Randolph of the sleeping car porters' union to Martin Luther King and Whitney Young of the urban league, to come to the island. In return Powell would keep his mouth shut - no more TV press conferences showing Adam apparently under the influence of too many scotches.

Some newspapers have reported that Adam is not concerned about the prospects of being arrested if he returns to New York. In Miami, however, when he flew there to have an election paper notarized, he appeared to be very much concerned. He remained at the airport only 20 munutes. If he is arrested, he wants to be tapped in Harlem amid his constituents.

There was a time when Adam didn't give a hoot about his public image. Thumbing his nose at white men made him a hero back in Harlem. But those days have changed.

After front-page newspaper stories featured him with a bosomy fire dancer in the End of the World Bar - pictures which also inspired the wrath of Corinne Huff - Adam was persuaded that he must improve his image.

END OF THE WORLD

This was what started his series of weekend outdoor sermons on the island. They were attended chiefly by curious American tourists. Few natives came to be converted. To them, Adam was old hat.

At a press conference on the Monday before Palm Sunday Powell distributed palms to a pack of Tallahassee boy scouts who had been corralled for the specific purpose of having their picture taken. The palms, according to Adam, had been gathered by island children for Palm Sunday services. Actually they had been cut only a few minutes before from a dead palm branch, not by children but by Powell's boat captain.

When the stage was set for the palm presentation, someone went to the End of the World Bar to tell Adam all was ready. He then came out to Brown's courtyard to announce that he would enter Harlem the following Sunday just as Jesus entered Jerusalem, triumphant on Palm Sunday - except Adam noted he would not be riding on the foal of an ass.

Shortly thereafter when he heard that the court contempt order would not be revoked, Adam revoked his own plans for returning triumphant to Harlem.

Actually Adam is not having the gay time many people think. Every morning he fishes alone except for the company of his captain. Every afternoon he drinks scotch while playing dominoes in the End of the World Bar. Corinne Huff's nerves appear frayed. She doesn't enjoy having tourists focus their cameras on her and either ducks down in the fishing boat or stays home alone.

Those responsible for clearing the legal road for Adams' return to New York have been warned by close friends that if he remains on the island in the sun too much longer, it may be for Adam truly the end of the world.

Such is the penalty not so much for using airplane credit cards, which other congressmen have done, but of ignoring your wife while at the same time cashing her salary checks. It was the testimony of Adam's rejected wife, Yvette, which hurt him most.

H. L. Hunt Says

REFORM THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Article II, Section I of the U. S. Constitution provides: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." Electors are directed by the Constitution to vote in their respective States, and Congress is authorized to count their votes.

To win, a presidential candidate must have a majority in the electoral college, but a President can be elected with less than a majority of the votes. In fact, this has happened 11 times in our history. This country has had nine minority Presidents, with two (Cleveland and Wilson) serving two terms as minority Presidents.

Before adoption of the Twelfth Amendment (1804) the House of Representatives, voting by States (with one vote for each State), chose the President from the five candidates having the largest number of electoral votes. After the choice of the President, the candidate having the greatest number of votes of electors became Vice-President. In event of a tie, the Senate would choose the Vice-President. The Twelfth Amendment provided that electors would henceforth vote for President and Vice-President separately.

Under the present system, every four years the American people run the risk of electing a minority President. The system is antiquated and discriminatory. For example, a candidate whose share of popular votes is only one more than that of his nearest rival in a State receives all that State's electoral votes.

The Legislatures of 12 States so far have passed resolutions calling for reform of the Electoral College. Twenty-six more States following their example could result in the correcting of this situation. Contacting your State Legislators can help preserve the tradition of a great Republic. HLH.

Spring Time Offensive Govt. Probing 50,000 Unions On Handling of Negroes.

Washington, D.C.: -- Actually it isn't even spring but the government, on a signal from the White House, is moving along a massive front to head off the oft threatened long hot summer.

One agency is about to check 50,000 unions and 7,000 apprenticeship programs to learn how many keep Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Mexican - Americans, American Indians and Orientals from getting in and getting jobs.

FBI teams have been spot-checking huge construction sites and lush suburban communities in search of a "pattern of discrimination."

Union leaders and employers running joint training schools -- which feed young newly skilled workers into huge building projects worth scores of billions of dollars -- are quietly being told they'll suddenly be hacked off from federal money conduits and contracts if they don't train and hire Negroes.

Specific unions, such as the big plumbers and pipe fitters organization which has some 25,000 young men in the training mill, are being picked for open and scathing scorn by the wrathful Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

Union chiefs threatening to bolt the "Party" and declare political war if they are "prosecuted" are told quietly they must stop catering to the big rebellious locals which are politically powerful in the international union. If the national leaders persist in their threat to join the opposition, they are being told politely to do it by way of first jumping into the Potomac.

This massive movement -- unleashed by the Justice Dept., which plans to haul some of the local unions into court soon, and by the Labor Dept. and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission -- is in part an answer to the criticism by the Rev. Martin Luther King who has threatened to make the summer hotter.

And partly, the offensive is a response to the urgings of such organizations as the moderate Urban League and the N.A.A.C.P. whose Boston convention President Johnson may address in mid-July.

The federal campaign at this very minute also springs from the confidential reports of some frustrated national labor leaders who say privately that they simply can't control the defiant local baronies.

So after some two years of juggling with verbiage the government has prepared a questionnaire for dispatch to all unions in the land. There have been public hearings on the wording.

The document now is at the Bureau of the Budget which, for some mysterious ancestral reason, must approve all government forms. Then it will hit the mail -- certainly within the next month.

". . .The Commission has proceeded and will proceed with equal vigor with the unions as well as employers," said Stephen Shulman, E.E.O.C. chairman, "since both are covered by the statute.

"The new union reporting forms will be called EEO-2 and EEO-3.

"Our research indicates that form EEO-2 will bring responses from 7,000 joint labor-management apprentice programs registered with state or federal agencies plus an undetermined number from unregistered joint programs as well as from unilateral employer or union programs.

"Form EEO - 3 we estimate will bring responses from some 50,000 industrial and referral type unions."

That will set the record. The Commission has no enforcement powers. But its record will be explosive. The new questionnaire -- which will demand that labor report on operations during August, September and October -- asks some mighty pertinent questions:

It wants to know whether there are any clauses in the constitution or bylaws or in practice which keeps Negroes, Spanish-Americans, American Indians and Orientals out of any of the unions.

It wants to know if applicants for membership in the unions which control the labor force in the highest paying (and lowest, too) areas must have a sponsor. It wants to know how many applicants there have been, and how many of these have been Negroes, etc., and how many have been admitted and how many have been referred to jobs.

It's tough. But that's how the government means it to be. And to have an unpunishable record during the three-month late summer and early fall period, the unions will have to open their books and jobs in late spring and early summer. And the federals want to know where the unions are keeping the records upon which they base their replies.

Then will come the analysis -- and action -- probably by the Justice Dept.'s Civil Rights Division. It was to this office, for example, that the FBI dispatched the results of its search for a "pattern of discrimination" in union membership and hiring in a New York City suburb where a $25 million construction project is underway.

Obviously the government has decided to stop playing it cool so it can head off the threatened hot weather rioting.

Vicky Sue Seabaugh Weds Harold William McDowell

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Tall baskets of gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums and twin spiral candelabra holding lighted tapers graced the altar of Maple Avenue Methodist church March 18 for the wedding of Miss Vicky Sue Seabaugh and Harold William McDowell. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seabaugh, 816 North Fountain, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. McDowell of Jackson.

The pastor, the Rev. Theodore Probst, officiating in the rites for which James Rhodes, organist, played and Allen Rowland of Jackson sang.

Escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace with high-rise waistline, deep Renaissance neckline and pencil-slim skirt. Accents of French cording and a rich sprinkling of sequins accented the bodice and hemline of the skirt with its soft inverted pleats at back. Her court train, sweeping from the shoulders, was edged in scallops of lace, and her elbow length, bouffant veil of silk illusion drifted from a cluster of organza rosebuds and satin leaves. She wore an heirloom lavaliere which had been her great-grandmother's. Her bouquet of white glamelias was arranged in gladioli and roses.

Her aunt, Mrs. Harold Curnell of Ilmo, matron of honor, Miss Elizabeth Ridings, maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Ritter, bridesmaid, wore pink chiffon gowns with draped empire waistlines and ruffled sleeves and carried cascade bouquets of pink pompon chrysanthemums.

Attendants to the bridegroom were his brother, Jerry McDowell of Sikeston, best man, and James K. Sander and Ray Schwain, both of Jackson. Eugene Meyer of St. Louis and John Wessell of Gordonville were ushers.

Afterward, a reception of wedding guests was held in the church dining room with the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Harold Gremore of Sikeston and Mrs. Ray Davault, presiding in serving with the aunts of the bride, Mrs. Curtis Quade of Potosi and Mrs. Leroy Abernathy of Jackson.

After their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the couple is at home at 1923 North Sprigg. She is employed by the Cape Girardeau Surgical Group, and he by W. T. Grant Co.

Miss June Wertz Marries Robert Gist March 18

MARION, Ind. -- In a double ring ceremony, Miss June Wertz and Robert L. Gist were married March 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the altar of the First Evangelistic United Brethern church. Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. L. G. D. Wertz and Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Gist of Portageville, Mo.

The vows were said before the bride's father, the Rev. Mr. Wertz who also gave his daughter in marriage. He was assisted by Darrell L. Cook, brother-in-law of the bride, ministerial student at Evangelical Seminary, Naperville, Ill.

White carnations were in the vases on the communion table. Bakets of white snapdragons and white and apricot carnations were at the ends of the altar. The pews were marked with white and apricot bows.

Mrs. James D. Carter, of Muncie, was the organist and Mrs. Ronald Green, of Indianapolis, was the soloist; she sang "Walk Hand In Hand With Me" and "If God Left Only You."

The bride wore a floor-length white satin A-line gown with empire waistline, with a lower-round boat shaped neckline. An embroidered imported lace covered the bodice. The same lace bordered the hemline of the gown. A satin train flowed gracefully down the back and tapered outward from the shoulder seams. The long set-in sleeves ended in bridal points over the hand. Her mantilla veil was of matching lace flowing down the back to wrist length from a white satin bow. She carried a white lace-covered Bible topped with her bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Richard DeHoff of Indianapolis was matron of honor and Mrs. Darrell Cook of Naperville, Illinois was bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride. They wore pale apricot floor length gowns of a brocade peau-de-soie.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wertz chose a princess style dress. Her accessories were of mint green.

Mrs. Gist, mother of the groom wore a three-piece mint green suit with beige accessories.

A dinner was held in the church fellowship hall for the wedding party and invited guests.

A three-tiered wedding cake, accented in apricot, and topped with a white wedding bell ornament, was cut by the bride and groom. The cake and apricot-colored fruit punch were served by Mrs. Harold Pittsford of Anderson, Ind., and Mrs. Ray Gallapoo of Elwood, Ind., both aunts of the bride. The table was covered with a white linen cloth topped with white net and accented on the edges with white miniature wedding bells.

For going away the bride chose a pastel pink and white tailored tweed suit with stand-up collar and straight skirt. The blouse was of pink silk shantung. She wore pink accessories. Her corsage was from the heart of the bridal bouquet. Her white-gold bracelet was the gift of the groom.

The bride is beginning her senior year at Ball State University, in Muncie, Ind., where she is a member of the concert choir and Sigma Alpha Iota music honorary professional fraternity. Gist was in the United States Marine corps for four years, serving in the Presidential Helicopter Unit. He is presently employed with the Chrysler Corporation in Kokomo, Ind.

The couple is now living in Kokomo.

Food Prices Lowest in 15 Months

NEW YORK (AP) - Foodprices dived again this week.

Farmers have been sending more livestock to market, and Southern crops have been better than they were a year ago, when they were curtailed by freezes.

As a result, wholesale prices this week dipped 6.3 per cent lower than a year ago, and are now the lowest in 15 months.

Vicky Sue Seabaugh Weds Harold William McDowell

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Tall baskets of gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums and twin spiral candelabra holding lighted tapers graced the altar of Maple Avenue Methodist church March 18 for the wedding of Miss Vicky Sue Seabaugh and Harold William McDowell. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seabaugh, 816 North Fountain, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. McDowell of Jackson.

The pastor, the Rev. Theodore Probst, officiating in the rites for which James Rhodes, organist, played and Allen Rowland of Jackson sang.

Escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace with high-rise waistline, deep Renaissance neckline and pencil-slim skirt. Accents of French cording and a rich sprinkling of sequins accented the bodice and hemline of the skirt with its soft inverted pleats at back. Her court train, sweeping from the shoulders, was edged in scallops of lace, and her elbow length, bouffant veil of silk illusion drifted from a cluster of organza rosebuds and satin leaves. She wore an heirloom lavaliere which had been her great-grandmother's. Her bouquet of white glamelias was arranged in gladioli and roses.

Her aunt, Mrs. Harold Curnell of Illmo, matron of honor, Miss Elizabeth Ridings, maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Ritter, bridesmaid, wore pink chiffon gowns with draped empire waistlines and ruffled sleeves and carried cascade bouquets of pink pompon chrysanthemums.

Attendants to the bridegroom were his brother, Jerry McDowell of Sikeston, best man, and James K. Sander and Ray Schwain, both of Jackson. Eugene Meyer of St. Louis and John Wessell of Gordonville were ushers.

Afterward, a reception of wedding guests was held in the church dining room with the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Harold Gremore of Sikeston and Mrs. Ray Davault, presiding in serving with the aunts of the bride, Mrs. Curtis Quade of Potosi and Mrs. Leroy Abernathy of Jackson.

After their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the couple is at home at 1923 North Sprigg. She is employed by the Cape Girardeau Surgical Group, and he by W. T. Grant Co.

Miss June Wertz Marries Robert Gist March 18

MARION, Ind. -- In a double ring ceremony, Miss June Wertz and Robert L. Gist were married March 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the altar of the First Evangelistic United Brethern church. Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. L. G. D. Wertz and Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Gist of Portageville, Mo.

The vows were said before the bride's father, the Rev. Mr. Wertz who also gave his daughter in marriage. He was assisted by Darrell L. Cook, brother-in-law of the bride, ministerial student at Evangelical Seminary, Naperville, Ill.

White carnations were in the vases on the communion table. Bakets of white snapdragons and white and apricot carnations were at the ends of the altar. The pews were marked with white and apricot bows.

Mrs. James D. Carter, of Muncie, was the organist and Mrs. Ronald Green, of Indianapolis, was the soloist; she sang "Walk Hand In Hand With Me" and "If God Left Only You."

The bride wore a floor-length white satin A-line gown with empire waistline, with a lower-round boat shaped neckline. An embroidered imported lace covered the bodice. The same lace bordered the hemline of the gown. A satin train flowed gracefully down the back and tapered outward from the shoulder seams. The long set-in sleeves ended in bridal points over the hand. Her mantilla veil was of matching lace flowing down the back to wrist length from a white satin bow. She carried a white lace-covered Bible topped with her bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Richard DeHoff of Indianapolis was matron of honor and Mrs. Darrell Cook of Naperville, Illinois was bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride. They wore pale apricot floor length gowns of a brocade peau-de-soie.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wertz chose a princess style dress. Her accessories were of mint green.

Mrs. Gist, mother of the groom wore a three-piece mint green suit with beige accessories.

A dinner was held in the church fellowship hall for the wedding party and invited guests.

A three-tiered wedding cake, accented in apricot, and topped with a white wedding bell ornament, was cut by the bride and groom. The cake and apricot-colored fruit punch were served by Mrs. Harold Pittsford of Anderson, Ind., and Mrs. Ray Gallapoo of Elwood, Ind., both aunts of the bride. The table was covered with a white linen cloth topped with white net and accented on the edges with white miniature wedding bells.

For going away the bride chose a pastel pink and white tailored tweed suit with stand-up collar and straight skirt. The blouse was of pink silk shantung. She wore pink accessories. Her corsage was from the heart of the bridal bouquet. Her white-gold bracelet was the gift of the groom.

The bride is beginning her senior year at Ball State University, in Muncie, Ind., where she is a member of the concert choir and Sigma Alpha Iota music honorary professional fraternity. Gist was in the United States Marine corps for four years, serving in the Presidential Helicopter Unit. He is presently employed with the Chrysler Corporation in Kokomo, Ind.

The couple is now living in Kokomo.

Food Prices Lowest in 15 Months

NEW YORK (AP) - Foodprices dived again this week.

Farmers have been sending more livestock to market, and Southern crops have been better than they were a year ago, when they were curtailed by freezes.

As a result, wholesale prices this week dipped 6.3 per cent lower than a year ago, and are now the lowest in 15 months.

Shipments of strawberries cauliflower and asparagus from California, and sweet corn, tomatoes, potatoes, peppers and citrus from Texas and grapefruit from Florida are increasing, leading to lower prices.

Egg prices, which have been tumbling since Easter, fell again this week. Prices now are about 25 cents a dozen lower than they were in November.

Shoppers also may find lower prices on frozen cocktail, pears, zucchini, lima beans, crinkle cut beets, diced carrots, pineapple, salmon and tunafish - special brand promotions this month.

The California tuna market has been glutted, and some vessels have been diverted to Puerto Rico. Tuna production in Hawaii and American Samoa in February was up 60 per cent from 1966.

Limbaugh Pounds Two Homers As Sikeston Beats Jackson

Indians Suffer 16-4 Setback

As Dogs Win Third in Row

By Staff Writer

JACKSON - Home runs continue to lift the Sikeston Bulldogs baseball squad over its opponents as Sikeston took a 16-4 victory over the Jackson Indians yesterday afternoon. This was the Dogs' third straight victory. It was Jackson's third consecutive loss.

Batting, fielding and pitching the Bulldogs to victory was senior Wayne Limbaugh, who cracked two homers, one a grand slam and the other a three-run blast, played short stop four innings and pitched three innings, in which he struck out five.

Limbaugh's first homer came in the fourth inning off loser Monroe. The other came in the seventh.

ZOILO VERSALLES, Minnesota Twins shortstop, grimaces as the ball takes a bad bounce over his head during infield practice at Orlando, Fla.

Manley was relieved in the fifth inning, holding an 8-2 lead and Limbaugh kept up the Dogs' defensive work by holding the Indians to two unearned runs. Manley struck out seven batters in five innings.

In the Dogs two previous victories, those over Oran and Chaffee, Manley and Mike Garner connected for four baggers.

Sikeston, now 3-0 will play host to the Illmo-Scott City Rams at the V. F. W. field Friday afternoon.

Manley and Limbaugh combined to pitch the Dogs to a three-hit victory.

Sikeston coach, Hal Lane, used his reserves late in the game and when the dust had settled his Sikeston squad had pounded out 14 hits, and scored 16 runs.

Both clubs went hitless in the opening inning. All six men went down in order. But the Dogs got things rolling in the first half of the second inning, scoring three runs on one hit, three walks, an error and a fielders' choice.

Jackson put its first score on the board in the bottom half of the second, scoring one run on two hits.

Sikeston flourished again in the fourth frame as it collected five hits and four runs on Limbaugh's grand slam homer.

Jackson moved their other three runs across in the fourth and fifth innings. Sikeston added one in the fifth, one in the sixth and seven in the final

Baltimore, Detroit and Minnesota 1-2-3 Pick In American League Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore has too many Robinsons for the rest of the American League and should win a second straight pennant. In this book, the only teams with solid chances to upend the favorites are the Detroit Tigers and the Minnesota Twins.

Despite the sore arms on Hank Bauer's pitching staff, the Orioles combine booming power, a tight defense and a strong bullpen. Bauer got only 23 complete games out of his staff last year but won easily by nine games and then swept the World Series in four straight.

It is tough to pick against a combination like that although the writer toyed with the idea of selecting Detroit. It is the feeling here that the Tigers could win it all but they have too many ifs in their pitching staff and could be ruined by an injury to a front liner.

With the addition of Dean Chance, the Twins do have formidable pitching but too much depends on a comeback by Bob Allison and development in center field. The latent power is present for another year like 1965.

Chicago's pitching should keep them in the race and Cleveland and California probably will fight it out for the other first-division berth.

The New York Yankees figure to escape the cellar but it will be an upset if they crack the top five. Kansas City has good young pitching which could be enough to put them ahead of Boston and Washington.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Baltimore
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. California
7. New York
8. Kansas City
9. Boston
10. Washington

If Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Steve Barber are not entirely sound when the seasons gets started, the Orioles may have to deal off a surplus outfielder to bolster the staff. Tom Phoebus, the young man who pitched two shutouts in his first two starts last fall but was not eligible for the Series, joins the starting rotation.

Frank Robinson, recovering from off-season knee surgery, and Brooks Robinson form a devastating punch. Toss in Boog Powell and Curt Blefary and add a few homers from Andy Etchebarren and the Orioles look real tough. Stu Miller, Eddie Fisher and Moe Drabowsky are expert firemen.

Mayo Smith appears to have the Tigers pulling together and hustling and Johnny Sain, his pitching coach, is doing a job with Joe Sparma. If Sain can provide enough strong arms to back up Denny McLain, Earl Wilson and Mickey Lolich, the Tigers really could be tough.

Dick McAuliffe has made the switch from short to second and Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup form a strong outfield.

The Twins' pitching is solid with Chance added to Jim Kaat, Jim Perry, Jim Grant and Dave Boswell. Harmon Killebrew is booming homers in exhibition games and Tony Oliva always is a threat for the batting title. Center and left could present problems to Manager Sam Mele.

SHS Golf

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Sikeston Bulldog golfers won their first match of the season yesterday by defeating the Caruthersville Tigers by nine strokes, 167-176.

The wind - swept course brought scores up somewhat, but the Dogs came through in flying colors. Ned Matthews and Charles Atchsion, both seniors, captured medalist honors for the Bulldogs. Both boys shot a nine-hole score of 41.

Next in line came Chuck Meyer, a red hot two-year boy, who was one shot off the pace with a 42. Three seniors rounded out the Sikeston scoring, Charles Stamp 43, Barry Greer 44, and David Whiteaker 46.

Caruthersville's low man was Ricky Davis. He shot a seven over par 43. Other Tiger scorers included Gary Lucy and Bobby Holland, 44, Van McClendon and Kenny Wimberly, 45, and Pat Slentz had a 55.

Coach Gene Dawson of Sikeston said he thought his boys played considerably better than they did last week against Poplar Bluff. Coach Dawson commented:

"We had some respectable scores considering the playing conditions."

Caruthersville Coach Parkinson stated that his boys didn't play as good as usual. He was quite impressed with the Sikeston squad. Caruthersville will journey to Dexter tomorrow to compete in a dual meet with the Bearcats.

The Dogs will be back on the trail again Friday when they travel to Kennett. The golfers lost this match last year by one stroke and will be out for revenge tomorrow at the Kennett Country club.

The line-up for the Bulldogs will probably be about the same as it has been in the first two meets with the exception of King Sidwell who will be out of action for a while due to an injury to his left hand.

The dual meet will begin at 1 p.m.

Bloomfield Names New Coaches

BLOOMFIELD -- The Bloomfield R-14 board of education has employed Frank Sifford of Broseley to coach and teach physical education for the 1967-68 school year.

Sifford has coached and taught at Broseley three years. He is a graduate of Oakland City college in Oakland City, Ind.

Charles Mofitt has been employed by the board to teach social studies and coach the seventh and eight grades.

Mofitt is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. He is coach and physical education instructor at Ellisnore high school.

Sifford and Mofitt will replace Tom Hewgley and Charles Spoonhour, who have resigned.

Hewgley will work on his masters degree while Spoonhour has accepted head coaching duties at Salem high school for the 1967-68 school year.

Netmen Fall At C'ville

CARUTHERSVILLE - The Sikeston netmen dropped their first match of the season to the Caruthersville Tigers yesterday afternoon. The squad made an impressive showing and was coming on strong but the match was cut short due to darkness. The final score was Caruthersville 4, Sikeston 3.

Scores in the singles division:

Kenny Bruce, Caruthersville, defeated Wythe Miller, Sikeston, (4-6)-(1-6).

Jim Hendricks, Caruthersville, was defeated by Bob McCord, (8-6)-(6-4).

Jim TeRoy, Caruthersville, defeated Hank Lippert, Sikeston, (6-3)-6-2).

Mac Ownby, Caruthersville, defeated Brad Crumpecker, Sikeston, (7-5)-(10-8).

Bill Dickerson, Sikeston, defeated Jim Norman, Caruthersville, (7-5)-(6-2).

Ron Hill, Sikeston, defeated Terry Thomas, Caruthersville, (6-1)-(6-1).

Brad Crumpecker lost his match by a narrow margin. This match was the closest of the afternoon as both boys put on a good show.

Only one doubles match was held because of the darkness. In this match, Caruthersville came out on top. Bruce and Hendricks defeated Miller and McCord, (6-2) and (6-4).

Sikeston Coach Richmond said that he thought that his boys did well. Richmond stated that the Bulldogs should be victorious on their home courts when the Tigers journey to Sikeston April 20.

The Sikeston team will travel to Kennett Friday to take on the Indians in its second match of the campaign.

The preliminaries are scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Semi-finals will follow and the final will begin at 7 p.m. An additional attraction, the Freshman Relays, will be run between the semi-finals and finals.

There are expected to be a few, if not many, records broken providing the weather is good. This year's track teams are better than they have been in the past.

Coach Norman Lambert, said that his squad is coming through in fine form and doing well to be so young. He thinks the boys will do better through the season. Sikeston placed second in the Charleston invitational Tuesday.

Missouri Tangles With Oklahoma State At Stillwater Tomorrow And Saturday

COLUMBIA - They brought up the rear in basketball, but Missouri and Oklahoma State will be flexing their baseball biceps in an early-season series at Stillwater tomorrow and Saturday.

Both schools have had strong diamond entries in conference warfare. The cowpokes (1-4) open defense of their Big Eight title against Mizzou, a team that hauled away four straight pennants from 1962-65. Last year, though, Coach Chet Bryan's Cowboys won the race on the final day - and then swept to the finals of the College World Series before bowing to Ohio State.

Curiously, Mizzou swept three games from O.S.U. a year ago - but slid to a fourth-place finish in the standings on a 9-8 record.

Both clubs made unproductive Southern forays last week, Mizzou was 3-5-1 following a swing through Texas and Louisiana. Oklahoma State won just once in four outings.

The trip also cost Missouri the services of a promising sophomore catcher, Bill Krawczyk, who fractured his jaw in a home-plate collision against a Tulane base-runner Saturday. He might be ready for the last two weeks of the season.

Coach John (Hi) Simmons named Jerry Hurt (2-0) and Bob Carpenter (0-1) as the probable pitchers against O. S. U. on Friday - and sophomore Dan Sharp (0-1) the likely hurler on Saturday.

"Hurt gave us the best performance on the trip," Simmons noted, "pitching ten scoreless innings. I figure our pitchers will come around with more work, but am concerned about our defensive shortcomings in the outfield."

Except for Ray Thorpe in left, Simmons indicated, he would still continue experimenting at the other two positions.

Thorpe, smallish, bespectacled football halfback, is leading the Bengals at the plate with a .324 mark on 11 hits in 34 trips. It was his 49-yard scamper with a Gary Kimbrink lateral that beat Oklahoma State, 7-0, in a tight, defensive duel here last fall.

Behind Thorpe, another recruit from football ranks, third baseman Jim Juras, is hitting .310. Sophomore Del Blunk is third at .290.

Probable Tiger batting order against the Pokes; Ray Thorpe, lf (.324); Gene Stephenson, 1b (.241); Jim Juras, 3b (.310) Del Blunk, cf (.290); Jim Loving, rf (.167); Rudy Stroupe, ss (.138); Kurt Boenker.

THANK YOU!

I want to take this opportunity to thank all the people in Sikeston, who supported me in the election April 4th.

I shall do my best to fullfill the confidence shown in me, by your vote.

Sincerely,

Arthur Ziegenhorn

Limbaugh Pounds Two Homers As Sikeston Beats Jackson

Indians Suffer 16-4 Setback As Dogs Win Third in Row

By Staff Writer

JACKSON - Home runs continue to lift the Sikeston Bulldogs baseball squad over its opponents as Sikeston took a 16-4 victory over the Jackson Indians yesterday afternoon.

This was the Dogs' third straight victory. It was Jackson's third consecutive loss.

Batting, fielding and pitching the Bulldogs to victory was senior Wayne Limbaugh, who cracked two homers, one a grand slam and the other a three-run blast, played short stop four innings and pitched three innings, in which he struck out five.

Limbaugh's first homer came in the fourth inning off loser Monroe. The other came in the seventh.

ZOILO VERSALLES, Minnesota Twins shortstop, grimaces as the ball takes a bad bounce over his head during infield practice at Orlando, Fla.

Manley was relieved in the fifth inning, holding an 8-2 lead and Limbaugh kept up the Dogs' defensive work by holding the Indians to two unearned runs. Manley struck out seven batters in five innings.

In the Dogs two previous victories, those over Oran and Chaffee, Manley and Mike Garner connected for four baggers.

Sikeston, now 3-0 will play host to the Illmo-Scott City Rams at the V. F. W. field Friday afternoon.

Manley and Limbaugh combined to pitch the Dogs to a three-hit victory.

Sikeston coach, Hal Lane, used his reserves late in the game and when the dust had settled his Sikeston squad had pounded out 14 hits, and scored 16 runs.

Both clubs went hitless in the opening inning. All six men went down in order. But the Dogs got things rolling in the first half of the second inning, scoring three runs on one hit, three walks, an error and a fielders' choice.

Jackson put its first score on the board in the bottom half of the second, scoring one run on two hits.

Sikeston flourished again in the fourth frame as it collected five hits and four runs on Limbaugh's grand slam homer.

Jackson moved their other three runs across in the fourth and fifth innings. Sikeston added one in the fifth, one in the sixth and seven in the final

Baltimore, Detroit and Minnesota 1-2-3 Pick In American League Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore has too many Robinsons for the rest of the American League and should win a second straight pennant. In this book, the only teams with solid chances to upend the favorites are the Detroit Tigers and the Minnesota Twins.

Despite the sore arms on Hank Bauer's pitching staff, the Orioles combine booming power, a tight defense and a strong bullpen. Bauer got only 23 complete games out of his staff last year but won easily by nine games and then swept the World Series in four straight.

It is tough to pick against a combination like that although the writer toyed with the idea of selecting Detroit. It is the feeling here that the Tigers could win it all but they have too many ifs in their pitching staff and could be ruined by an injury to a front liner.

With the addition of Dean Chance, the Twins do have formidable pitching but too much depends on a comeback by Bob Allison and development in center field. The latent power is present for another year like 1965.

Chicago's pitching should keep them in the race and Cleveland and California probably will fight it out for the other first-division berth.

The New York Yankees figure to escape the cellar but it will be an upset if they crack the top five. Kansas City has good young pitching which could be enough to put them ahead of Boston and Washington.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Baltimore
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. California
7. New York
8. Kansas City
9. Boston
10. Washington

If Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Steve Barber are not entirely sound when the seasons gets started, the Orioles may have to deal off a surplus outfielder to bolster the staff. Tom Phoebus, the young man who pitched two shutouts in his first two starts last fall but was not eligible for the Series, joins the starting rotation.

Frank Robinson, recovering from off-season knee surgery, and Brooks Robinson form a devastating punch. Toss in Boog Powell and Curt Blefary and add a few homers from Andy Etchebarren and the Orioles look real tough. Stu Miller, Eddie Fisher and Moe Drabowsky are expert firemen.

Mayo Smith appears to have the Tigers pulling together and hustling and Johnny Sain, his pitching coach, is doing a job with Joe Sparma. If Sain can provide enough strong arms to back up Denny McLain, Earl Wilson and Mickey Lolich, the Tigers really could be tough.

Dick McAuliffe has made the switch from short to second and Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup form a strong outfield.

The Twins' pitching is solid with Chance added to Jim Kaat, Jim Perry, Jim Grant and Dave Boswell. Harmon Killebrew is booming homers in exhibition games and Tony Oliva always is a threat for the batting title. Center and left could present problems to Manager Sam Mele.

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Sikeston Bulldog golfers won their first match of the season yesterday by defeating the Caruthersville Tigers by nine strokes, 167-176.

The wind - swept course brought scores up somewhat, but the Dogs came through in flying colors. Ned Matthews and Charles Atchsion, both seniors, captured medalist honors for the Bulldogs. Both boys shot a nine-hole score of 41.

Next in line came Chuck Meyer, a red hot two-year boy, who was one shot off the pace with a 42. Three seniors rounded out the Sikeston scoring, Charles Stamp 43, Barry Greer 44, and David Whiteaker 46.

Caruthersville's low man was Ricky Davis. He shot a seven over par 43. Other Tiger scorers included Gary Lucy and Bobby Holland, 44, Van McClendon and Kenny Wimberly, 45, and Pat Slentz had a 55.

Coach Gene Dawson of Sikeston said he thought his boys played considerably better than they did last week against Poplar Bluff. Coach Dawson commented:

"We had some respectable scores considering the playing conditions."

Caruthersville Coach Parkinson stated that his boys didn't play as good as usual. He was quite impressed with the Sikeston squad. Caruthersville will journey to Dexter tomorrow to compete in a dual meet with the Bearcats.

The Dogs will be back on the trail again Friday when they travel to Kennett. The golfers lost this match last year by one stroke and will be out for revenge tomorrow at the Kennett Country club.

The line-up for the Bulldogs will probably be about the same as it has been in the first two meets with the exception of King Sidwell who will be out of action for a while due to an injury to his left hand.

The dual meet will begin at 1 p.m.

Bloomfield Names New Coaches

BLOOMFIELD -- The Bloomfield R-14 board of education has employed Frank Sifford of Broseley to coach and teach physical education for the 1967-68 school year.

Sifford has coached and taught at Broseley three years. He is a graduate of Oakland City college in Oakland City, Ind.

Charles Mofitt has been employed by the board to teach social studies and coach the seventh and eight grades.

Mofitt is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. He is coach and physical education instructor at Ellisnore high school.

Sifford and Mofitt will replace Tom Hewgley and Charles Spoonhour, who have resigned.

Hewgley will work on his masters degree while Spoonhour has accepted head coaching duties at Salem high school for the 1967-68 school year.

Netmen Fall At C'ville

CARUTHERSVILLE - The Sikeston netmen dropped their first match of the season to the Caruthersville Tigers yesterday afternoon. The squad made an impressive showing and was coming on strong but the match was cut short due to darkness. The final score was Caruthersville 4, Sikeston 3.

Scores in the singles division:

Kenny Bruce, Caruthersville, defeated Wythe Miller, Sikeston, (4-6)-(1-6).

Jim Hendricks, Caruthersville, was defeated by Bob McCord, (8-6)-(6-4).

Jim TeRoy, Caruthersville, defeated Hank Lippert, Sikeston, (6-3)-6-2).

Mac Ownby, Caruthersville, defeated Brad Crumpecker, Sikeston, (7-5)-(10-8).

Bill Dickerson, Sikeston, defeated Jim Norman, Caruthersville, (7-5)-(6-2).

Ron Hill, Sikeston, defeated Terry Thomas, Caruthersville, (6-1)-(6-1).

Brad Crumpecker lost his match by a narrow margin. This match was the closest of the afternoon as both boys put on a good show.

Only one doubles match was held because of the darkness. In this match, Caruthersville came out on top. Bruce and Hendricks defeated Miller and McCord, (6-2) and (6-4).

Sikeston Coach Richmond said that he thought that his boys did well. Richmond stated that the Bulldogs should be victorious on their home courts when the Tigers journey to Sikeston April 20.

The Sikeston team will travel to Kennett Friday to take on the Indians in its second match of the campaign.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The testing program which we use to measure pupil achievement in the elementary schools is being given at this time and will continue throughout the month. The fourth and fifth grades are being tested this week and the tests will continue for the first, second and third grades. The series, which we use to measure individual and school progress, was developed by the Science Research Associates, likely the largest research and testing service of its kind in the nation.

The purpose of the tests is, as stated previously, to give us a measure of individual pupil progress and of school progress and to allow us to compare our results with other schools, national averages, etc.; and for our use in grouping children and in planning our program of instruction to meet their needs.

Generally on the basis of these standardized tests our average results are above those of the nation as a whole.

We feel that careful planning by the principal and supervisors and the effective work of our teachers are the major factors in our overall school progress, as certainly our per pupil expenditure, that is the amount of money spent on each child for the things that go into the educational program, is very considerably below the national average per pupil expenditure. In fact, our per pupil cost here is at least $150 below the national average expenditure. This is simply a fact of life, not our intent, and is because we receive much less from our sources than do most other schools. Our primary disadvantage is the small tax base or evaluation per school child enrolled. Consequently, our income is, obviously, not as much as it is in those schools where the tax base per child is larger. Nonetheless, it would seem that the school boards effective use of the tax dollar is getting good results, should be a source of community pride.

All parents of children whose sixth birthdays will be on or before September 15, 1967, are asked to pre - enroll these children, at the elementary school nearest their home, on Friday, May 12. As nearly as possible these first graders will be sent to the schools nearest their homes but it is also possible that those who do not pre - enroll may be assigned to a different school if room enrollments are already filled. Hence the importance of early enrollment which allows us to plan the first grade program for school opening, balance room and school enrollments, that is keep the teacher - pupil ratio as nearly equal as possible and to be prepared to give these youngsters the best possible start in the fall. Please fix this date in mind or put it on your calendar, May 12 for first grade enrollments.

It has been said that most if not all of the great ideas of man are found in the collection of books known as THE GREAT BOOKS or the SYNTOPICAN. This is a collection of important writings or expressions from those authors whose ideas have affected civilization or history.

Thousands of groups of people hold meetings to discuss these books, authors and ideas throughout the country. Men and women of all walks of life, differing social and economic strata and many varieties of intellectual interests take part. A recent development has been the organization of Junior Great Books discussion programs. In fact, we have such a program meeting regularly at Middle School. One of these enrolls 35 eight grade students and the other 30 seventh graders. These groups were organized by Mrs. David Croom and Mrs. Handy Moore.

They meet Tuesday and Thursday nights and discuss the books or assignments which they have previously read and which they usually re-read after the discussion. Thus they get their own concept of the author's ideas and through discussion, often spirited, the differing viewpoint of other members of the group or that of the discussion leaders.

The English department at Middle School also recognized or gives credit for this work in their assigned or outside reading programs.

We commend those in charge of this stimulating program and hope that it spreads to include more of our student body at all applicable levels.

Speaking of books as we did in the previous item, Fred Huff, Director of Library Services, and his associates in that department have organized a book fair or display to be held at the Senior High School library Monday, April 17 through Friday, April 21. It will be open daily from 7:30 to 4:30 and Tuesday evening from 7:00 to 9:00 and will close at noon on Friday. The book display, according to Mr. Huff, "will permit teachers, librarians, students and interested adults to review 450 of the best new library books at the seventh to twelfth grade level."

Sixty three publishers will be represented. The books are organized by grade level, such area and type (fiction and non-fixtion) making it easier to find the books of one's interest.

The firm that supplies the exhibits neither solicits or sends orders. The service which is entirely free, merely provides schools, teachers, students, parents, and all other interested individuals information to keep up with the important new books.

We pass along our librarian's invitation for your attendance.

The school census, required at least once each five year period, to count all children and youth under 20 years of age, married or single, here or in the service, in college, or working in some other town, who calls a house in this district his or her home, will begin April 10. Under the direction of Tony Statler of the school staff, it will be conducted by the Freshman class of Middle School. We solicit the cooperation of all people in helping us to get the correct count. It would be helpful if the householder, would have the full names, birth date, ages and relationship of all persons in the above category for the census taker. These individuals do not have to attend school in order to be counted.

The census is extremely important not only for an accurate count for planning purposes, but because it is the basis on which certain county and state school funds are distributed to the school. Thus the school loses if any youth or child is not counted.

We are now in the process of measuring or evaluating the remedial reading and after school tutoring program which we have conducted this year. While we strongly are of the opinion that these have been worthwhile, we will try to get more objective measures from certain tests which are being specifically given to those children who took part in these programs.

Both remedial reading and after school tutoring are financed by federal funds and, under our tight budget, could not otherwise have been accomplished.

The remedial reading program is set up to give special attention and instruction to those children who have reading difficulties or who are behind in this subject and the after school tutoring, available to all children who need it, is conducted at the schools either immediately after the regular school day or in the evening.

We will provide more information about these programs when the evaluation is completed.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The testing program which we use to measure pupil achievement in the elementary schools is being given at this time and will continue throughout the month. The fourth and fifth grades are being tested this week and the tests will continue for the first, second and third grades. The series, which we use to measure individual and school progress, was developed by the Science Research Associates, likely the largest research and testing service of its kind in the nation.

The purpose of the tests is, as stated previously, to give us a measure of individual pupil progress and of school progress and to allow us to compare our results with other schools, national averages, etc.; and for our use in grouping children and in planning our program of instruction to meet their needs.

Generally on the basis of these standardized tests our average results are above those of the nation as a whole.

We feel that careful planning by the principal and supervisors and the effective work of our teachers are the major factors in our overall school progress, as certainly our per pupil expenditure, that is the amount of money spent on each child for the things that go into the educational program, is very considerably below the national average per pupil expenditure. In fact, our per pupil cost here is at least $150 below the national average expenditure. This is simply a fact of life, not our intent, and is because we receive much less from our sources than do most other schools. Our primary disadvantage is the small tax base or evaluation per school child enrolled. Consequently, our income is, obviously, not as much as it is in those schools where the tax base per child is larger. Nonetheless, it would seem that the school boards effective use of the tax dollar is getting good results, should be a source of community pride.

All parents of children whose sixth birthdays will be on or before September 15, 1967, are asked to pre - enroll these children, at the elementary school nearest their home, on Friday, May 12. As nearly as possible these first graders will be sent to the schools nearest their homes but it is also possible that those who do not pre - enroll may be assigned to a different school if room enrollments are already filled. Hence the importance of early enrollment which allows us to plan the first grade program for school opening, balance room and school enrollments, that is keep the teacher - pupil ratio as nearly equal as possible and to be prepared to give these youngsters the best possible start in the fall. Please fix this date in mind or put it on your calendar, May 12 for first grade enrollments.

It has been said that most if not all of the great ideas of man are found in the collection of books known as THE GREAT BOOKS or the SYNTOPICAN. This is a collection of important writings or expressions from those authors whose ideas have affected civilization or history.

Thousands of groups of people hold meetings to discuss these books, authors and ideas throughout the country. Men and women of all walks of life, differing social and economic strata and many varieties of intellectual interests take part. A recent development has been the organization of Junior Great Books discussion programs. In fact, we have such a program meeting regularly at Middle School. One of these enrolls 35 eight grade students and the other 30 seventh graders. These groups were organized by Mrs. David Croom and Mrs. Handy Moore.

They meet Tuesday and Thursday nights and discuss the books or assignments which they have previously read and which they usually re-read after the discussion. Thus they get their own concept of the author's ideas and through discussion, often spirited, the differing viewpoint of other members of the group or that of the discussion leaders.

The English department at Middle School also recognized or gives credit for this work in their assigned or outside reading programs.

We commend those in charge of this stimulating program and hope that it spreads to include more of our student body at all applicable levels.

Speaking of books as we did in the previous item, Fred Huff, Director of Library Services, and his associates in that department have organized a book fair or display to be held at the Senior High School library Monday, April 17 through Friday, April 21. It will be open daily from 7:30 to 4:30 and Tuesday evening from 7:00 to 9:00 and will close at noon on Friday. The book display, according to Mr. Huff, "will permit teachers, librarians, students and interested adults to review 450 of the best new library books at the seventh to twelfth grade level."

Sixty three publishers will be represented. The books are organized by grade level, such area and type (fiction and nonfixtion) making it easier to find the books of one's interest.

The firm that supplies the exhibits neither solicits or sends orders. The service which is entirely free, merely provides schools, teachers, students, parents, and all other interested individuals information to keep up with the important new books.

We pass along our librarian's invitation for your attendance.

ALFALFA WEEVIL, a relatively new crop pest in Missouri, has been found in 50 counties, shown on this map, according to entomologists at the University of Missouri extension division in Columbia.

Heavy Infestations Of Alfalfa Weevil in Area

COLUMBIA -- Heavy infestations of alfalfa weevil, an insect that can destroy an alfalfa crop, are being found in the Southeast Missouri counties, reports Gene Munson, survey entomologist for the University of Missouri Extension Division.

In some fields in Pemiscot county insect damage was found on 100 percent of the plants, Munson said. Spraying with insecticides is normally recommended when 50 percent of the plants show damage.

The weevils are about 10 days earlier than last year, the entomologist reported.

Spraying is being carried out in Pemiscot, New Madrid, and Scott Counties, Munson reported.

As the build-up of insect population works northward, spraying will likely be needed. Any counties south of a line between Ste. Genevieve and Douglas Counties could have a problem this year, according to George Thomas, MU extension entomologist.

Without insect control all of the first cutting of hay can be lost. Last year it was estimated that half of the first cutting of alfalfa and some of the second cutting was lost in the delta counties.

The damage is caused by a small light to dark green larvae, with a white stripe down the middle of the back. The larvae, which has a black head, is about 3/8 inch long when full grown.

The damage is caused by skeletonizing of the terminal and upper leaves of the alfalfa plant. Damaged fields appear greenish gray, then gray, and finally frosted as the damaged leaves dry.

Thomas reports that spraying is justified when 50 percent of the terminal buds show feeding damage and injury to the upper leaflets becomes apparent.

The alfalfa weevil was first discovered in the southeastern part of Missouri in the spring of 1964. Since then it has spread to 50 east central, central, and southwest counties.

At this rate of spread the insect will probably be found statewide in three or four years, Thomas said. Last year the weevil was found as far north as Pike County and as far west as Lawrence and Barry Counties.

Damage of economic importance can be expected two to three years after the first insect is found in a county, Thomas said.

Normally the first cutting is hardest hit by the weevil, as the insect -- unlike most pests -- goes dormant during the summer months.

"The alfalfa weevil overwinters in two forms -- adult weevils and eggs which are laid in the alfalfa stems in the fall and winter," Munson pointed out.

The larvae that are now causing problems are those that hatched from overwintering eggs. In the meantime, the adult weevils have been laying eggs in the new growth. As these eggs hatch, the weevil will be present throughout the spring.

"Farmers who are applying insect controls now, will undoubtedly have to spray a second time," Munson said. It is also sometimes necessary to spray the stubble after the first cutting of hay to prevent damage to the second cutting. In some cases early cutting of the alfalfa hay may eliminate the need for spraying if infestations aren't too heavy.

Information on recommended insecticides and application rates can be obtained at county extension centers.

TO FACILITATE housing arrangements at the University of Colorado, students are urged to state their rooming preferences for the following year on cards provided for that purpose. On one of these cards, it was discovered, a girl had requested for the next year: "A size-12 roommate, please."

PERVERSE PLAYMATES

A five - year -old boy had just been vaccinated and the nurse prepared a bandage to place over the spot on his arm.

"Nurse," said the youngster. "will you put it on my other arm, please?"

"But I must put it over the spot on your arm that is going to be sore," explained the nurse. "You see, I'm trying to protect it so your playmates won't hit it."

"That's why I want it on the other arm," declared the lad. "You don't know my playmates?"

ALFALFA WEEVIL, a relatively new crop pest in Missouri, has been found in 50 counties, shown on this map, according to entomologists at the University of Missouri extension division in Columbia.

Heavy Infestations Of Alfalfa Weevil in Area

COLUMBIA -- Heavy infestations of alfalfa weevil, an insect that can destroy an alfalfa crop, are being found in the Southeast Missouri counties, reports Gene Munson, survey entomologist for the University of Missouri Extension Division.

In some fields in Pemiscot county insect damage was found on 100 percent of the plants, Munson said. Spraying with insecticides is normally recommended when 50 percent of the plants show damage.

The weevils are about 10 days earlier than last year, the entomologist reported.

Spraying is being carried out in Pemiscot, New Madrid, and Scott Counties, Munson reported.

As the build-up of insect population works northward, spraying will likely be needed. Any counties south of a line between Ste. Genevieve and Douglas Counties could have a problem this year, according to George Thomas, MU extension entomologist.

Without insect control all of the first cutting of hay can be lost. Last year it was estimated that half of the first cutting of alfalfa and some of the second cutting was lost in the delta counties.

The damage is caused by a small light to dark green larvae, with a white stripe down the middle of the back. The larvae, which has a black head, is about 3/8 inch long when full grown.

The damage is caused by skeletonizing of the terminal and upper leaves of the alfalfa plant. Damaged fields appear greenish gray, then gray, and finally frosted as the damaged leaves dry.

Thomas reports that spraying is justified when 50 percent of the terminal buds show feeding damage and injury to the upper leaflets becomes apparent.

The alfalfa weevil was first discovered in the southeastern part of Missouri in the spring of 1964. Since then it has spread to 50 east central, central, and southwest counties.

At this rate of spread the insect will probably be found statewide in three or four years, Thomas said. Last year the weevil was found as far north as Pike County and as far west as Lawrence and Barry Counties.

Damage of economic importance can be expected two to three years after the first insect is found in a county, Thomas said.

Normally the first cutting is hardest hit by the weevil, as the insect -- unlike most pests -- goes dormant during the summer months.

"The alfalfa weevil overwinters in two forms -- adult weevils and eggs which are laid in the alfalfa stems in the fall and winter," Munson pointed out.

The larvae that are now causing problems are those that hatched from overwintering eggs. In the meantime, the adult weevils have been laying eggs in the new growth. As these eggs hatch, the weevil will be present throughout the spring.

"Farmers who are applying insect controls now, will undoubtedly have to spray a second time," Munson said. It is also sometimes necessary to spray the stubble after the first cutting of hay to prevent damage to the second cutting. In some cases early cutting of the alfalfa hay may eliminate the need for spraying if infestations aren't too heavy.

Information on recommended insecticides and application rates can be obtained at county extension centers.

TO FACILITATE housing arrangements at the University of Colorado, students are urged to state their rooming preferences for the following year on cards provided for that purpose. On one of these cards, it was discovered, a girl had requested for the next year: "A size-12 roommate, please."

PERVERSE PLAYMATES

A five - year -old boy had just been vaccinated and the nurse prepared a bandage to place over the spot on his arm.

"Nurse," said the youngster. "will you put it on my other arm, please?"

"But I must put it over the spot on your arm that is going to be sore," explained the nurse. "You see, I'm trying to protect it so your playmates won't hit it."

"That's why I want it on the other arm," declared the lad. "You don't know my playmates?"

GOVERNORS FOR RIGHT TO WORK

John E. Davis, Governor of North Dakota 1957-1959, 1959-1961: "Our Right to Work law is guaranteeing the constitutional rights of all employees in North Dakota. The state has developed industrially and expanded its job opportunities and wage rates since the Right to Work law has been in effect."

Private Enterprise And Public Responsibility In A Free Economy

By George Champion

In inviting me to participate in a program on the relationship of Business and Government, your Chairman Orville Beal probably figured that a banker could speak, if not from authority, at least from experience -- some of it quite painful.

The Federal Government's interest in banking is almost as old as our national history, and state regulatory commissions have kept a wary eye on the banks since 1838. That's sixteen years before the insurance business of our luncheon speaker, Gil Fitzhugh, and Orville Beal, fell under the states' regulatory gaze, and sixty - nine years before Don Cook's public utilities came under official surveillance. So you can see that the relationship between my particular business and government has been enduring, if not always enchanting.

It used to be fashionable to talk about the triad of banking, insurance and public utilities as "regulated industries," meaning industries requiring government permission before they could undertake certain activities. Today that term is redundant. If anyone can find such a thing now as an "unregulated industry," he can sell it at a profit to the Smithsonian!

The historic boundaries between public and private enterprise have become so blurred that it is often hard to tell whether we have a mixed economy or just a mixed-up one!

The Federal Government is the biggest spender, biggest lender, biggest borrower, and biggest customer in the Free World. It does everything from running sightseeing cars at T. V. A., to guaranteeing the financing for the Washington Senators' baseball stadium. If Jimmy Hoffa's drive to unionize the ball players succeeds, I wouldn't be surprised if the government ordered an 80 - day "cooling off" period to get the teams through the World Series!

Now you may feel as I do that we would be better off under a system in which -- to borrow a British statesman's trenchant phrase -- "private enterprise will be enterprising (and) the government will govern." However, we in the twentieth century business community are faced with a fact of life, not a theory. Realistically, if we are to have any hope of solving the grave problems of our times, we must do everything possible under the existing system to maintain a strong, healthy and growing economy.

This requires a high degree of cooperation between business and government in numerous areas of our national life. Many of the tasks which need to be done are so formidable that government inevitably must play a part in them. Over the years, business can be proud of its record of cooperative, achievement with government, particularly in times of national emergency.

Lately, this partnership approach has given currency, to a newly - minted expression in Washington: "creative Federalism." As interpreted by Administration spokesmen, this concept envisages a broadly - based Federal effort to join hands with other levels of government and all types of private instructions in the work of improving America.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE RELUCTANT WORKERS

Management and labor tried to settle a steel strike by striking a settlement. After many months of negotiations, however, their negotiations produced no more fruit than a shoe tree. Consequently, the President of the United States instructed the Attorney General to go to court and obtain an order directing the workers to discontinue their strike.

"The strike is crippling the nation," the Attorney General pointed out to the judge. "It's ruining businesses that depend upon steel production and its causing people to lose their jobs. What's more, it's endangering the country's defense and space programs and it's playing havoc with national security. Consequently, the strikers MUST be ordered back to work.

"Not so fast," protested the strikers. "This isn't Russia. No one can order us to do anything we don't want to do. If a man wants to quit working, that's his business. And, we just don't want to go to work."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the strikers back to work?

This is how the judge ruled; Yes! The judge held that if the strike were permitted to continue it would imperil the national health and safety so as to cause irreparable injury to the United States: While an individual worker may have the right to quit his job, the judge noted, the strike was a concentrated work stoppage that did not involve the right of an "individual" employee to choose to stop working.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

An assault requires violence or the threat of violence so as to put a person in actual fear that he may be harmed. If a person is not put in such fear, there's been no assault. As an example, a sleeping person cannot be assaulted even if you point a gun at his head since he is unaware that his safety is being threatened.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are baffled. We don't know what to think. Our son-in-law decided he needed a vacation from our daughter. They had been married only 11 months and weren't getting along too well. I must admit she wasn't a very good wife. She couldn't manage on his income, borrowed from her father and me and nagged her husband constantly about insignificant things that should have been overlooked.

Our son-in-law went to Mexico by himself -- to "think things over." Our daughter moved back into her room so she wouldn't be alone in their apartment.

This morning we received a telegram from our son-in-law saying he will not be back for several months, and he is divorcing our daughter for reasons of illness.

What does this sound like to you? -- STUNNED PARENTS.

Dear Parents: It sounds like he is sick of her.

Dear Ann Landers: I am fed up and disgusted with people who say, "Honesty is the best policy."

Twice this week I was asked to give an honest opinion. Well, I gave an honest opinion and both times I got into terrible trouble. I have made an enemy for life and I was kicked out of English class for the rest of the term. In our school when you get kicked out of class you flunk the course and have to take it over again next semester.

You hear all these high sounding phrases about honesty being the best policy, but I have learned first - hand that it doesn't pay. A person is much better off to lie and stay out of trouble. So why don't you come right out and admit it since you pride yourself on giving good advice? -- TRUTH IS TROUBLE.

Dear Trouble: I notice that you did not provide a single detail of the incidents which brought forth your sterling qualities and landed you in trouble.

Many people delight in tearing friends to pieces, leaving not a shred of dignity and they call the butchery "being frank" or "simple honesty."

Yes, it pays to be honest, but it does not pay to be punitive and brutal. And this is probably your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: I wish those unhappy wives who have lost their husbands to "The Other Woman" would stop calling them "Tramps." True, some one-night stands deserve the name, but the majority of "Other Women" are intelligent, attractive and very much in love.

Sex alone will not hold a marriage together, nor will it sustain an affair. "The Other Woman" provides something the wife doesn't, otherwise she would not be in the picture. It might be compassion, understanding, adoration, or just old-fashioned appreciation for his presence. Maybe he just wants to be around someone who doesn't nag him, or belittle him, or make him feel inadequate.

So, wives, take stock of yourselves. If you want to keep your husbands happy don't give them any excuses to roam. There's an old saying that if you feed a man well at home he won't go to restaurants. -- KITTEN.

Dear Kitten: Some men prefer restaurants to home cooking just because it's different. The rest of your letter, however, makes a great deal of sense. Thank you for writing.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE RELUCTANT WORKERS

Management and labor tried to settle a steel strike by striking a settlement. After many months of negotiations, however, their negotiations produced no more fruit than a shoe tree. Consequently, the President of the United States instructed the Attorney General to go to court and obtain an order directing the workers to discontinue their strike.

"The strike is crippling the nation," the Attorney General pointed out to the judge. "It's ruining businesses that depend upon steel production and its causing people to lose their jobs. What's more, it's endangering the country's defense and space programs and it's playing havoc with national security. Consequently, the strikers MUST be ordered back to work.

"Not so fast," protested the strikers. "This isn't Russia. No one can order us to do anything we don't want to do. If a man wants to quit working, that's his business. And, we just don't want to go to work."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the strikers back to work?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that if the strike were permitted to continue it would imperil the national health and safety so as to cause irreparable injury to the United States: While an individual worker may have the right to quit his job, the judge noted, the strike was a concentrated work stoppage that did not involve the right of an "individual" employee to choose to stop working.

On the front side of the new map there is a convenient index to many of Missouri's cities and villages for quick location along with their population. The front of the map carries a message to highway users from the Hon. Warren E. Hearnes, Governor of the State of Missouri.

As in past years, the reverse side of the map carries a mileage chart showing the travel distance between principal Missouri cities. There are also individual maps depicting the highway routes in and through 47 Missouri cities.

Elliott Named To PSC Post

JEFFERSON CITY AP --- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Wednesday appointed Howard Elliott Jr., of St. Louis as a Republican member of the Missouri Public Service Commission -- the agency that regulates public utilities.

Elliott replaces Frank W. May, Flat River Republican, whose term will expire April 15. May 41, was appointed by former Gov. John M. Dalton in 1961.

Elliott is the son of a former speaker of the Missouri House who served in that powerful position in the 1945 - 47 session that had the monumental task of realigning state laws to fit a new state Constitution.

The elder Elliott was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1952.

Hearnes appointed Vincent James Ruddy, Democrat, of St. Louis County, as judge of Division 14 of the St. Louis County Circuit Court. He succeeds the late Judge Forrest Boecker.

Reappointed were John B. Ervin of St. Louis as a member of the State Commission on Human Rights and Mrs. Sinclair Gottlieb of Jefferson City to the Board of Regents of Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg.

Elliott Named To PSC Post

JEFFERSON CITY AP ---- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Wednesday appointed Howard Elliott Jr., of St. Louis as a Republican member of the Missouri Public Service Commission -- the agency that regulates public utilities.

Elliott replaces Frank W. May, Flat River Republican, whose term will expire April 15. May 41, was appointed by former Gov. John M. Dalton in 1961.

Elliott is the son of a former speaker of the Missouri House who served in that powerful position in the 1945 - 47 session that had the monumental task of realigning state laws to fit a new state Constitution.

The elder Elliott was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1952.

Hearnes appointed Vincent James Ruddy, Democrat, of St. Louis County, as judge of Division 14 of the St. Louis County Circuit Court. He succeeds the late Judge Forrest Boecker.

Reappointed were John B. Ervin of St. Louis as a member of the State Commission on Human Rights and Mrs. Sinclair Gottlieb of Jefferson City to the Board of Regents of Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg.

District 10, Sikeston, Mo. 63801.

Missouri's official 1967 state highway road maps will be ready for distribution to highway users Monday, April 10.

The Department has again this year made some revisions in the map to make it more usable for the highway user.

The new 1967 map shows all highways in the Missouri State Highway System as of December 31, 1966, as well as some sections of the Interstate highway system which are expected to be completed during the ensuing year.

On the front side of the new map there is a convenient index to many of Missouri's cities and villages for quick location along with their population. The front of the map carries a message to highway users from the Hon. Warren E. Hearnes, Governor of the State of Missouri.

As in past years, the reverse side of the map carries a mileague chart showing the travel distance between principal Missouri cities. There are also individual maps depicting the highway routes in and through 47 Missouri cities.

AFRICAN HOT SPOT-- France Keeps the Peace

French Somaliland, a tiny patch of desert, hardly seems worth the trouble, but France is determined to stay. The colony's port of Djibouti is vital to Ethiopia, but the Somali Republic would like to seize it. If that happened, war might break out in East Africa, dragging in the great powers.

DJIBOUTI, FRENCH SOMALILAND (AP) - A suspect referendum, mass deportations and a sledge hammer military action have strengthened the French grip on their last little colony in Africa.

But by keeping French Somaliland, French President Charles de Gaulle may have averted a conflict embroiling Africa's eastern horn in a war threatening to involve the United States and Russia. "French presence in this troubled region is the keystone to an arch" said Governor Louis Saget on the referendum eve. "If it were withdrawn, equilibrium and peace might be threatened."

Saget's remark was a clue to French determination to remain in this arid patch of sand and scrub no bigger than New Hampshire. The French have ruled it for 80 years.

Following three days of riot and violence which greeted his visit here last August, De Gaulle promised the colony a referendum to decide its future. It was given the choice of independence or continued association with France.

With the electors list heavily weighted against those in favor of independence, the referendum result was never seriously in doubt. Of the colony's 125,000 people, 58,000 are Somalis and 48,000 Afars. The rest are French and Arabs.

Almost to a man the Somalis wanted independence, with a possible view to eventual union with the neighboring Somali Republic. The Afars, their traditional foes, were happy to stay with France. On the voters list there are 14,000 Somalis as against 22,000 Afars.

The French took no chances between De Gaulle's visit and the March 19 referendum. At least 6,000 Somalis were expelled to the Somali Republic. A United Nations request to observe the ballot was ignored.

The referendum ran true to form and so, too, did the violence which greeted its predictable result - 22,555 votes for France, 14,666 for indepence.

Swollen by reinforcements to more than 7,000, French troops and police were braced for trouble. The Somalis, concentrated in the capital of Djibouti, ran riot through the streets and alleys of their shantytown district. Gov. Saget claims many were armed with guns, knives or Molotov cocktails, and were incited by political leaflets to rebellion and civil war. Newsmen who watched the action saw only stones in Somali hands.

Backed by armored cars with machine guns blazing, French troops moved ruthlessly against the demonstrators. Within 20 minutes they had stormed hastily erected barricades and ground resistance into the dust. At least 12 and perhaps as many as 20 Somalis died in the one-sided battle. Three Frenchmen were slightly injured.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was clamped on Djibouti's African quarter and curfew-breakers shot on sight. Paratroops and Foreign Legionnaires went from shack to shack rounding up thousands of Somali men and women. They were trucked off to a desert detention camp to await deportation.

But the Somali Republic refused to admit them and back they went to the detention camp. Saget charged the Mogadishu government with "deception" and with turning its back on brother Somalis.

French officials reported plans for establishing a permanet penal settlement for 500 hardcore nationalists, and for handing over another 1,500 to the Ethiopians, who like Afars, are longtime Somali enemies.

About 3,000 eventually will be released after screening, and permitted to remain in the colony provided they behave themselves, said French officials.

With the commercial center of Djibouti slowly returning to normal, the city's African quarter looks like an occupied enemy capital. Sandbagged strongpoints bristle with machine guns and Africans are continually stopped for identity checks. The area is stiff with troops.

Afars from outlying regions have been brought in to work, and Gov. Saget announced new development plans for the colony, concentrating almost exclusively on the north. There seemed little future for a Somali in French Somaliland and many planned to leave. The French could not be more pleased.

Saget reports Ethiopian and Somali Republic troops are in position around the colony's border, but the referendum result probably has averted a clash which seemed likely had the vote gone the other way. Its port and 486-mile railroad linking with Addis Ababa are the colony's sole claims to importance.

Djibouti still is Ethiopia's main outlet to the sea and a vote for independence would have endangered that outlet. Emperor Haile Selassie threatened to move in if Ethiopia's interests were jeopardized. In Mogadishu the government of the Somali Republic vowed to use force to prevent any such takeover.

Kenya, whose north-eastern region is claimed by the Somalis, is linked with Ethiopia by a mutual defense treaty. The Ethiopian army, 40,000 strong, is trained and equipped by the United States, and American advisors serve with its four divisions. The Somali army of 9,000 is trained and equipped by the Soviet Union.

Thus a clash between the two states over French Somaliland could have set off a conflict threatening the stability of much of eastern Africa, and involving two great powers. However it was obtained, the colony's vote for the French to stay has likely been greeted with relief in several foreign capitals.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. (Acts 22:15)

PRAYER: Dear Father, how thankful we are for the sending of Jesus Christ into the world. We are grateful beyond measure that He has saved our souls. Unloose our tongues and lighten our feet that we may be witnesses for our living Lord, in whose name we pray. Amen.

In our parish. St. Theresa's in Phoenix, Ariz., the rectory received the following Christmas card the month after the congregation had started responding to the Mass in English.

"To the good Sisters and Fathers of St. Theresa's. Before we abandon Latin in its entirety, may I sincerely wish 'a pax on both your houses'."

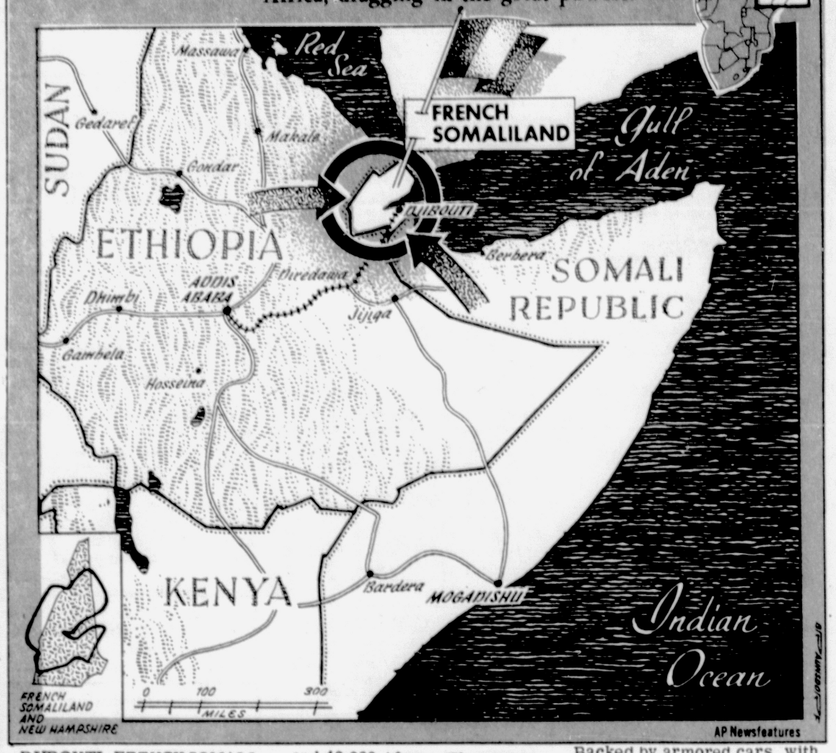
AFRICAN HOT SPOT-- France Keeps the Peace

French Somaliland, a tiny patch of desert, hardly seems worth the trouble, but France is determined to stay. The colony's port of Djibouti is vital to Ethiopia, but the Somali Republic would like to seize it. If that happened, war might break out in East Africa, dragging in the great powers.



DJIBOUTI, FRENCH SOMALILAND (AP) - A suspect referendum, mass deportations and a sledge hammer military action have strengthened the French grip on their last little colony in Africa.

But by keeping French Somaliland, French President Charles de Gaulle may have averted a conflict embroiling Africa's eastern horn in a war threatening to involve the United States and Russia. "French presence in this troubled region is the keystone to an arch" said Governor Louis Saget on the referendum eve. "If it were withdrawn, equilibrium and peace might be threatened."

Saget's remark was a clue to French determination to remain in this arid patch of sand and scrub no bigger than New Hampshire. The French have ruled it for 80 years.

Following three days of riot and violence which greeted his visit here last August, De Gaulle promised the colony a referendum to decide its future. It was given the choice of independence or continued association with France.

With the electors list heavily weighted against those in favor of independence, the referendum result was never seriously in doubt. Of the colony's 125,000 people, 58,000 are Somalis and 48,000 Afars. The rest are French and Arabs.

Almost to a man the Somalis wanted independence, with a possible view to eventual union with the neighboring Somali Republic. The Afars, their traditional foes, were happy to stay with France. On the voters list there are 14,000 Somalis as against 22,000 Afars.

The French took no chances between De Gaulle's visit and the March 19 referendum. At least 6,000 Somalis were expelled to the Somali Republic. A United Nations request to observe the ballot was ignored.

The referendum ran true to form and so, too, did the violence which greeted its predictable result - 22,555 votes for France, 14,666 for independence.

Swollen by reinforcements to more than 7,000, French troops and police were braced for trouble. The Somalis, concentrated in the capital of Djibouti, ran riot through the streets and alleys of their shantytown district. Gov. Saget claims many were armed with guns, knives or Molotov cocktails, and were incited by political leaflets to rebellion and civil war. Newsmen who watched the action saw only stones in Somali hands.

Backed by armored cars with machine guns blazing, French troops moved ruthlessly against the demonstrators. Within 20 minutes they had stormed hastily erected barricades and ground resistance into the dust. At least 12 and perhaps as many as 20 Somalis died in the one-sided battle. Three Frenchmen were slightly injured.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was clamped on Djibouti's African quarter and curfew-breakers shot on sight. Paratroops and Foreign Legionnaires went from shack to shack rounding up thousands of Somali men and women. They were trucked off to a desert detention camp to await deportation.

But the Somali Republic refused to admit them and back they went to the detention camp. Saget charged the Mogadishu government with "deception" and with turning its back on brother Somalis.

French officials reported plans for establishing a permanet penal settlement for 500 hardcore nationalists, and for handing over another 1,500 to the Ethiopians, who like Afars, are longtime Somali enemies.

About 3,000 eventually will be released after screening, and permitted to remain in the colony provided they behave themselves, said French officials.

With the commercial center of Djibouti slowly returning to normal, the city's African quarter looks like an occupied enemy capital. Sandbagged strongpoints bristle with machine guns and Africans are continually stopped for identity checks. The area is stiff with troops.

Afars from outlying regions have been brought in to work, and Gov. Saget announced new development plans for the colony, concentrating almost exclusively on the north. There seemed little future for a Somali in French Somaliland and many planned to leave. The French could not be more pleased.

Saget reports Ethiopian and Somali Republic troops are in position around the colony's border, but the referendum result probably has averted a clash which seemed likely had the vote gone the other way. Its port and 486-mile railroad linking with Addis Ababa are the colony's sole claims to importance.

Djibouti still is Ethiopia's main outlet to the sea and a vote for independence would have endangered that outlet. Emperor Haile Selassie threatened to move in if Ethiopia's interests were jeopardized. In Mogadishu the government of the Somali Republic vowed to use force to prevent any such takeover.

Kenya, whose north-eastern region is claimed by the Somalis, is linked with Ethiopia by a mutual defense treaty. The Ethiopian army, 40,000 strong, is trained and equipped by the United States, and American advisors serve with its four divisions. The Somali army of 9,000 is trained and equipped by the Soviet Union.

Thus a clash between the two states over French Somaliland could have set off a conflict threatening the stability of much of eastern Africa, and involving two great powers. However it was obtained, the colony's vote for the French to stay has likely been greeted with relief in several foreign capitals.

When he was greeted by the FBI and his family at the apartment, "Kenny was very calm, not hysterical or crying, Young said. "He said, 'Hi, dad, I'm awfully sleepy.' He acted as if he expected it to end all the time. it was like he'd never been gone."

As Kenneth was examined by a doctor and put to bed in the lavish Young home in a fashionable neighborhood, his father calmly described the abduction and the ransom payment. Police theorized that Kenneth was kidnaped as he slept by someone who knew that an outside staircase on the large white house led to a glass door near the boy's bedroom.

A maid discovered Kenneth's empty bed Monday morning and took Young a note she found warning him not to call the police and describing how to turn over $250,000 for the boy's return.

"As soon as we read that note, my wife and I agreed that the thing to do was to call the police immediately," Young recalled. The family and authorities maintained the secret while scores of policemen and FBI agents went to work.

Dressed in a blue polo shirt, black slacks and a tan windbreaker, dragging on a cigarette occasionally, the slightly graying Young sat back in a wicker chair in a spacious room.

"I had half a dozen phone calls Monday but the party at the other end never spoke to me," he said. "Last night I did as the letter said and drove to the phone booth. The call came at 6 p.m. and the man said, 'are you Herbert?'

"He spoke in a slow, soft voice. He sounded very intelligent. I then drove to the gas station and waited beside my car. About 45 minutes later a white Chevy Impala slowed down right in front of the station. The individual motioned me to follow him."

Young followed the man's car to a clear gravel area. The man asked for the bag.

"He had his left hand free but his right hand was in his jacket. I didn't know if he was armed. I gave him the bag. Then I came back home.

"The next call was about 4 a.m. Kenny was on the phone and said he had been drugged with three sleeping pills and was in a man's apartment in Santa Monica. Then a man came to the phone and said, 'I have your son here; he's fine, but he's tired.'"

Young did not disclose how many abductors his son described. He said Kenneth would return on Monday to his fifth grade classes at Beverly Hills elementary school

Young, who heads an organization with assets of $423.5 million, was sleeping with his wife Arline when Kenneth disappeared. A maid and their other children—a 3-year-old girl and boys 13 and 6 — were sleeping in bedrooms farther away from the second floor door than Kenneth's.
